Mayor Proposes Auto Tax for City Streets

WOULD ABOLISH CIVIL SERVICE IN POLICE DEPT.

Recommends That to Apply Only to Offices and Stations, Says Mayor in Request.

WOULD CONSOLIDATE MANY DEPARTMENTS

Nominal Building Permit Fee Among Measures Advocated, Some Requiring Legislative Action.

Calling attention to the fact that the 1923 session of the state general assembly is but a short time distant, Mayor Walter A. Sims Monday addressed a message to city council advocating the following changes in the city government, some of which require charter amendment action by the legislature:

Abolition of a nominal registration tax upon all automobiles based upon a system similar to that employed by the state, proceed of this tax to go to the repair and maintenance of Atlanta's streets.

Abolishment of the civil service system in the police department so far as it applies to offices and stations, but not as it applies to the individual and the holding of his position in the department.

That the building inspector charge a small fee for building permits in order to provide funds for functioning of his department, and that the building inspector make an estimate of the value of all new buildings and supply this to the tax assessors to be used in determining tax figures.

Department Change. That the offices of building inspector, plumbing inspector and department of electrical control be consolidated and placed under one head, that of building inspector, and that the health and sanitary departments be consolidated, both these measures being aimed at economy in administration.

That pension funds be held at a minimum by adoption of a rule whereby only those who have been in continuous service of the city for 35 years or injured in line of duty be eligible.

That the registration of voters be conducted at the city hall instead of at the county court house, as is now the case.

That the park department and the department of public buildings and grounds be consolidated, and that the park manager assume charge of the two—another economy measure.

That a close study be made with the view to consolidating other city departments.

Argentine Preparing To Return to Ranks Of League of Nations

Buenos Aires, Argentine, May 7.—Argentine is considering coming back into the fold of the league of nations from which she withdrew in 1921. President Alvear, in a message to the Argentine congress, declared that he would report concerning the restoration of the country in the league during the present session so as to obtain congressional action.

The message reaffirmed the pacific intentions of the government. The president proposed that permanent Argentine embassies be established in Chile, Brazil and Mexico to cement the solidarity of the South American republics.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY IN The Constitution (FACSIMILES)

PERMANENT OF COURTESY TO ATLANTA
The Georgia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has been organized at Atlanta by the action of the following officers:
President—James W. Davis.
Vice President—Rev. Dr. Robert Irvine, of Augusta.
Secretary—Charles Green, of Savannah, and Anderson W. Brown, of Macon.
Counsel—Salem Ditcher, who was also elected Secretary, is being deemed desirable to enable the society to function properly.
The Executive Committee was then constituted as follows: H. P. King, John A. Davidson, Joseph H. Channing, Jas. W. Davis and Salem Ditcher (the latter two ex-officio). Miss Lou King and Dr. William Pugh.
The objects of the Society are declared to be "to provide effective means for the prevention of cruelty to animals in the State of Georgia, to subvert all laws which are now or may hereafter be enacted for the prevention of animals, and to secure, by all lawful means, the arrest, conviction and punishment of all persons violating such laws."

Chinese Bandits Release Women Captured in Raid

Americans and Others Dropped When Captors Find They Are Unable to Keep Up March.

PRISONERS REPORTED WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Reports Say Bandits Used Them as Protection Against Fire of Troops in Pursuit.

Peking, May 8.—(Tuesday).—Retreating into the Shantung wilderness, taking with them 24 foreign captives including a number of Americans for whose release they have demanded one million dollars ransom, 1,000 Chinese bandits who wrecked and robbed a crack express from Shanghai are being closely pursued by 5,000 government troops.

The American and British governments have served a demand on China for immediate release of the captives, whose lives are feared for if the troops press too hard upon the bandits.

Already the outlaws have given an inkling of what may be expected, as three of the prisoners, two Americans and an Englishman, are reported to have been wounded when forced to stand as a living wall between their captors and the bullets of the pursuers.

Women Are Released. All the women who were captured when the bandits closed in on the detailed express have been released, in their number included Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Pinger, wives of American army officers whose husbands were taken prisoner. Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Pinger have reached Tientsin—the only American survivors to reach there to date.

Tuesday all the foreign diplomats in Peking are meeting to determine a course of action. British and American legations already have demanded release of their nationals, and an explanation of the situation, of which an extremely grave view is taken.

The Chinese government admits the gravity of the situation, expressing serious doubts that the captives can be taken alive from the bandits, who, in their demand for ransom, stipulated they must be assured freedom from attack. The government indicated, however, that the demand for ransom was not to be made.

'Fighting' Negro Rebel Adds Plea For 'Ol' Lucien'

"Ten-Cent" Bill, Aged Colored Veteran, Tells of Suing for Pension.

The voice in the wilderness has met with an answer. Lucien Troupe, aged Montrose, Ga. negro, and body servant to the late Governor George M. Troupe during the bloody '60s, who Saturday addressed an almost illegible scrawl to Governor Hardwick, asking that he be given a pension in his old age, is backed in his appeal by William H. Yopp, familiarly known to civil war veterans as "Ten-Cent" Bill, another Georgia darkey, who was a "fighting" confederate.

"Ten-Cent" Bill, who is an attaché of the Old Soldiers' home and whose proudest boast is that he accompanied his "old master," Captain T. M. Yopp, through the death-struggles of the war between the states, Monday came to the offices of The Constitution to add his word in support of "Ol' Lucien's" appeal for financial aid in the dark years of old age, when the glory of the "lost cause" is only a tender memory and the truest friends of his youth and manhood have "passed over the river" before him.

"Remembered 'Ol' Lucien.' The minute I saw Lucien's letter to the governor," declared Bill, in reminiscent mood, "I remembered him. Along in 1855, he was one of the house servants of Governor Brown."

RESERVE BOARD WILL ACT SOON ON BANK BATTLE

Atlantans Present Arguments Against Proposal of Boston to Establish Cuban Agency.

OPPOSITION DEVELOPS TO FOREIGN AGENCIES

Charles Mitchell Says, However, If One Is Permitted, Atlanta Should Have Preference.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, May 7.—The federal reserve board listened today for several hours to proponents and opponents of the application of Boston Reserve bank to establish an agency in Havana, Cuba. Lengthy argument was presented by each side and the board finally decided to take the question under further advisement before acting on the bank's application.

The meeting was behind closed doors and members of the board declined to discuss the case pending the receipt of further information on both sides of the question. Governor Cragin, of the reserve board, reiterated statements he made in a telegram Friday to the Atlanta bank in which he gave assurance that the interests of that institution in Cuba, where it now has a note circulation of about $400,000, would be protected and dealt with equitably.

W. P. G. Harding, head of the Boston Reserve bank, and opponents of the proposal, were at the treasury.

Atlanta Delegation. More than 20 bankers and business men appeared before the board and presented arguments for and against the proposal of the Boston bank. The Atlanta reserve district was represented by half a dozen men including John K. Ottley, a director, and L. C. Adelson, deputy governor of the Atlanta bank.

The Atlanta opposition was based on the ground that entry of the Boston bank into Cuba would constitute unfair competition in handling bankers acceptances and bills of exchange, and would curtail the lending power of the Atlanta district banks through forced withdrawal of currency now afloat in Cuba. Governor W. P. G. Harding, of the Boston Reserve bank, countered with the assertion that it was not the intention of the Boston bank to attempt circulation in Cuba, but merely to be able to buy, sell or collect on exchange transactions, in order to facilitate the handling of Boston's heavy exports to Cuba.

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, said, "I am not in a position to say whether the Boston bank should be permitted to do business in Cuba, but I am in a position to say that if it is permitted, it should be permitted to do business in Atlanta."

President Poses For Photograph With Georgians

Governor-Elect Walker Sees Dixie Victory in Harding's Statement.

Washington, May 7.—(Special).—Reciprocating the courtesies paid him while in the south, President Harding today did the unusual thing of stepping out on the white house lawn and having his photograph taken with a delegation from Dixie which waited on him to protest against any tinkering or tampering with the vegetable oil schedule in the McCumber-Fordney tariff bill.

"Certainly I will have my picture taken with my good friends from Georgia and the rest of the south," said the chief executive when asked to submit to the ordeal. Then he put his arm around Governor-elect Walker, of Georgia, and walked smilingly to the front of the executive office, where the cameramen did effective work. Commissioner of Agriculture Brown, L. B. Jackson and other Georgians got into the picture.

The president was sandwiched between Governor Walker and John H. Kirby, of Texas, president of the Southern Tariff association.

At Home With Southerners. He shook hands cordially with Harris, head of the agricultural department of South Carolina, and his demeanor indicated that he felt just as much at home in the company of political opponents as he would in association with his ardent supporters.

GERMANY WARNED ALLIED BILL MUST BE PAID IN FULL

Paris, May 7.—(By the Associated Press).—France and Belgium have again served notice on Germany that they intend the reparation bill shall be paid in full and that there will be no consideration of any German proposal as long as passive resistance in the Ruhr continues to be the Reich's watchword.

Replying in a joint note to the German offer of last week, the Ruhr allies point out that the sum of thirty billion gold marks represents less than one-fourth of the total which both the reparation commission and Germany recognized as the amount of her debt. France and Belgium advance no proposals of their own, restricting their reply to a categorical rejection of the German terms.

Veiled Revolt. The communication to Berlin characterizes the German offer as "a badly veiled systematic revolt against the treaty of Versailles" which if it could be considered "would result certainly in the total and final destruction of the treaty, in the necessity of negotiating another, and in the moral, economic, political and military revenge of Germany."

To the German argument that the Ruhr occupation is in violation of the terms Germany signed at Versailles, the note replies that that past "obligates Germany not to consider as an act of hostility any penalty imposed after the reparation commission had declared her in default." It reiterates the decision of France and Belgium to evacuate the newly-occupied territories only as reparations payments are made.

STUDENT'S DEATH NOW UNDER PROBE

J. Allen Mills, Former Northwestern Student, Wanted as Witness, Now Located.

Chicago, May 7.—A grand jury today began an investigation of the mystery surrounding the death of Leighton Mount, Northwestern university student who disappeared following a class rush in September, 1921, and whose skeleton was found under a pier at Evanston a week ago.

With state's Attorney E. Crowe, and newly all his assistants working on the case, much importance was attached to the finding at Akron, Ohio, of J. Allen Mills, a former Northwestern student who was said to have been in the class rush the night Mount disappeared and who, students have said, knew most of the circumstances in connection with the rush. An assistant state's attorney left for Akron to question him and two others departed for an unnamed destination.

It was reported they were going to Williamson, West Va., to question two other former students at Northwestern said to have participated in the rush. Chief Justice Michael McKinley instructed the grand jury to make a thorough investigation of Mount's disappearance and death. If the jury finds evidence of violence, he asked that it notify him, adding that he wished to give further instructions in such an event.

First witnesses will be called before the jury tomorrow. The schedule of the first witnesses to appear included the names of Miss Doris Fuchs, a friend of Mount's, who received a letter from him the day he disappeared; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mount, parents

POLICE COMMITTEE MEMBERS IN TILT ON COUNCIL FLOOR

Proposed Demotion of Lieutenants' Rank Brings Armistead and Wells Into Battle Arena.

MEASURE IS DUBBED AS "DIRTY POLITICS"

Demotion of Lieutenant Hollis Sets Off Fireworks—Measure Is Tabled by 18 to 10 Vote.

City council's police committee, for months engaged in a campaign to oust Chief of Police James L. Beavers and clean up the department, witnessed its first break Monday afternoon when Councilman James L. Wells, a committee member, voiced heated objection on council floor to a resolution offered by Chairman Jesse W. Armistead calling for abolition of the rank of lieutenant.

In a spirited verbal tilt between the two, which, for the first time, shattered the harmony of the committee, Councilman Wells scored the proposed ordinance as "nothing more than dirty politics on the part of members of the police committee."

The measure, which would have stripped five lieutenants in the police department of their commissioned rank and relegated them to the uniform squad as patrolmen, was tabled by a vote of 18 to 10, on motion of Mayor Pro Tem H. A. Gordon.

All members of the police committee, with the exception of Councilman Wells, voted against tabling the measure.

Jumps to His Feet. Immediately after Chairman Armistead had handled the proposed ordinance, which was signed by all police committee members excepting Councilman Wells, to the clerk to be read, the latter jumped to his feet and demanded of Chairman Armistead why such an ordinance was proposed.

"Mr. Chairman," he heatedly declared, "I'd like to ask Alderman Armistead why he and members of the police committee desire such an ordinance to be adopted by council. As I see it, there's

Missing Launch Of Army Sought By Two Cutters

Q-15, With Crew of Six, Not Been Heard From Since May 5.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Key West, Fla., May 7.—The six-ton motor launch Q-15 of the United States army, with a crew of six on board, has not been heard from since 4 o'clock on the morning of May 5, when she was seen leaving the high seas in a strong gale in latitude 26-55, longitude 86-40. This was officially made known here today on arrival of the United States army boat General Frank M. Cox.

Late today the coast guard cutters Sauke and Cossack were preparing to go in search of the missing boat. The General Frank M. Cox, attached to the United States army, Captain E. K. White, U. S. A., in command, was en route from New Orleans to Panama.

The list of men aboard the missing vessel was not available here late today. The Q-15 and the Q-16, both sixty-two-footers, were in tow of the Frank M. Cox, which was taking the launches to Porto Rico. While heading for Havana on the morning of April 30 the engines of the Q-16 broke down and shortly afterward the boat began to leak. She was towed through the day in a leaky condition, however, and at 6 o'clock that evening her crew was taken aboard the Cox and the Q-16 set afire, according to the information given out here.

Early on May 5 the Q-15 proceeded ahead under her power, in a slightly easterly direction, in weather that was described as extremely rough and the Q-15 was last seen at 4 o'clock on that morning. Ample provisions were on board, it was stated, and also a sufficient supply of water and gasoline to last for ten days.

HARDING'S LETTER URGING ENTRANCE STRESSED AT MEET

"Must Have International Law to Guide Us in Handling Foreign Difficulties," Says Mrs. Winter.

OPENING SESSION HELD IN BAPTIST TABERNACLE

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, of Boston, Named Chairwoman of Department of International Relations.

Indicating very clearly what is to be one of the leading subjects for discussion before the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting in Atlanta this week, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president, in her talk at the meeting, held in the Baptist Tabernacle last night, voiced convincing arguments in favor of American participation in the international court.

She declared that America holds the leadership in power, wealth and idealism of the world, but told how useless this was unless America used that leadership. She said that there could be no question that the greatest problem before the world was that of war or peace, for all the future. War, she asserted, was by its very nature, outlawed, in that it was outside of the law. But, she asked, how can you outlaw anything without a law?

Must Have Law. "We must have the means of carrying out the law," she continued. "We must provide agencies for the solving of far-off difficulties. It is the province of government to build up, and not destroy, life. Our hearts are all set upon creating all possible agencies for law between nations. Let us approach this subject, determined never to let politics, personalities or such minor things interfere with our discussion of the subject."

Mrs. Winter then read a letter from President Harding, in which he regretted his inability to speak before the convention, but stated his firm conviction that America was ready to join the world court and take her place around the tribunal table of the nations of the world.

First Meeting. Last night's meeting marked the first general session of the federated club women, after a day spent in registration and social meeting.

The only other meeting of a business nature during the day was one of the executive council held in the forenoon.

Monday's program saw the delegates registered and located in the various hotels and private homes where they will spend the week. Today the hard work of the convention begins. Three important sessions are scheduled at the Tabernacle, morning, afternoon and night, when subjects of primary importance to the women of the nation are up for discussion.

At the meeting of the executive council Mrs. Winter was authorized.

TWO ALABAMA CITIES PLAN CONSOLIDATION

Phoenix City and Girard Merger Favored at Mass Meeting.

Girard, Ala., May 7.—(Special.) A mass meeting attended by 1,000 people in Phoenix City and Girard yesterday afternoon, endorsed the consolidation of Phoenix City and Girard and voted in favor of naming the new municipality Brandon in honor of the governor of Alabama.

The sense of the meeting was that Attorney General Harold G. Davis of Alabama proceeding with the drawing of a bill providing for the consolidation of the two towns by legislation was favored rather than a vote by the people in an election. Under the plan approved by the mass meeting which was held at the Phoenix theater, the governor would appoint the first officials of the new municipality.

A committee composed of six persons from each town, with men and women having equal membership, was authorized, for the purpose of circulating petitions to determine the attitude of the majority of the qualified voters in Phoenix City and Girard in regard to the consolidation. This step was taken following the explanation that the state attorney general desired such expression from the people of the two towns before he submitted the bill to the legislature. The appointment of the committee probably will be made by T. W. Britton, of Phoenix City, who presided over the mass meeting.

He had just alighted from a parked automobile on the side of the road when Deaton's car, turning a curve at a fast rate of speed struck him. Deaton claims that the accident was unavoidable. He was placed under arrest on a charge of manslaughter, but executed bond for his appearance.

only one reason for such drastic legislation and that's simply to inject additional politics into the police department.

"If Councilman Wells would attend meetings of the committee," replied Alderman Armistead, "he would know why we passed such a resolution at last Wednesday night's meeting."

Wells Responds. "That's the trouble," replied Councilman Wells, "when I'm not there all these dirty political schemes are put over. Didn't you demote Lieutenant Hollis at the last meeting?" "No, he's still a lieutenant," said Chairman Armistead. "What the committee did was pass favorably on a resolution to council to abolish all ranks of lieutenant in the police department. I can see no earthly reason for retaining lieutenants in the department who do identically the same work as sergeants."

"If you didn't demote Lieutenant Hollis," continued Councilman Wells, "why is he walking around without his bars?" He came to me last Thursday and said he had been demoted. This ordinance is grossly unfair. I'm kicking about the injustice of it. The police committee was appointed to reform the police department, but what it is doing to do it with a bunch of stuff like this."

Gordon Steps In. Chairman Armistead was engaged in explaining the reasons for abolishing the rank of lieutenant when Mayor Pro Tem Gordon called upon Alderman Bachman to assume the chair. When this was done Mr. Gordon made a motion to table the measure, the vote being 18 to 10 in favor of this action.

man Wells told newspaper men he was disgusted with the "petty politics" which, he claimed, certain members of the police committee were playing.

"The ordinance to abolish the rank of lieutenant in the police department," said Mr. Wells, "was nothing more than petty politics to get rid of Lieutenant J. A. Hollis, who has been in the department for a period of 30 years. He is a good, faithful and honest officer who had never had one mark of demerit placed against him."

"Another thing the committee did last Wednesday night, which was nothing but the rankest brand of politics, was to abolish the position of matron held by Mrs. Mamie Heard, who is the widow of a former patrolman, who was slain in the discharge of his duties. This sort of procedure is disgusting."

only one reason for such drastic legislation and that's simply to inject additional politics into the police department.

"If Councilman Wells would attend meetings of the committee," replied Alderman Armistead, "he would know why we passed such a resolution at last Wednesday night's meeting."

Wells Responds. "That's the trouble," replied Councilman Wells, "when I'm not there all these dirty political schemes are put over. Didn't you demote Lieutenant Hollis at the last meeting?" "No, he's still a lieutenant," said Chairman Armistead. "What the committee did was pass favorably on a resolution to council to abolish all ranks of lieutenant in the police department. I can see no earthly reason for retaining lieutenants in the department who do identically the same work as sergeants."

"If you didn't demote Lieutenant Hollis," continued Councilman Wells, "why is he walking around without his bars?" He came to me last Thursday and said he had been demoted. This ordinance is grossly unfair. I'm kicking about the injustice of it. The police committee was appointed to reform the police department, but what it is doing to do it with a bunch of stuff like this."

Gordon Steps In. Chairman Armistead was engaged in explaining the reasons for abolishing the rank of lieutenant when Mayor Pro Tem Gordon called upon Alderman Bachman to assume the chair. When this was done Mr. Gordon made a motion to table the measure, the vote being 18 to 10 in favor of this action.

man Wells told newspaper men he was disgusted with the "petty politics" which, he claimed, certain members of the police committee were playing.

"The ordinance to abolish the rank of lieutenant in the police department," said Mr. Wells, "was nothing more than petty politics to get rid of Lieutenant J. A. Hollis, who has been in the department for a period of 30 years. He is a good, faithful and honest officer who had never had one mark of demerit placed against him."

"Another thing the committee did last Wednesday night, which was nothing but the rankest brand of politics, was to abolish the position of matron held by Mrs. Mamie Heard, who is the widow of a former patrolman, who was slain in the discharge of his duties. This sort of procedure is disgusting."

From Elgin—to You—for the Young Man at Graduation

OUT of a great deal of experience these facts may help you in selecting the graduation present:—

Graduation is a rarer thing than Christmas. It is more significant than any holiday. The graduation gift should have a lifetime meaning.

Many young men receive their first watch when they graduate.

It is a pity so many graduation timepieces have to be discarded a few years after.

And it is a beautiful idea that some graduation watches are carried the rest of their owners' lives.

Watchmaking is a profession.

As this profession is practised by the Elgin Watchmakers, it has standards of precision almost beyond belief.

It is these standards of precision that give the Elgin Watch its preferred position among railroad men—concededly the most exacting group of men in the world on the practical side of time-keeping.

With so many young men today stating preference for the Strap Watch—Elgin was naturally looked to for as fine a timepiece in the strap-model as in a pocket watch.

The Elgin Strap-Watch is a professional timekeeper.

You will see young men everywhere carrying the Elgin make. That is, to the extent that Elgin is able to supply them.

Please remember—there has been a shortage of Elgin Watches for the past two years.

It takes a year or more to make an Elgin Watch.

The procedure is very similar to laboratory work—so far away from factory methods that no terms of commercial manufacture apply.

People call the Elgin "The professional timekeeper."

It is the natural reaction of carrying a timepiece of authority.

ELGIN IS THE PREFERRED TIMEPIECE ON THE RAILROADS OF AMERICA

GEORGIANS, INC., OPEN MACON MEET TODAY

Georgia Federation of Labor Indorses Plan—Hardwick Names Delegates.

Plans for developing Georgia industrially will be consummated at a meeting of Georgians, Inc., at Macon today. Georgians, Inc., was recently organized at a meeting at the Capital City club, and an organization committee appointed. Incorporation papers, prepared by Attorney General George M. Napier will be presented for adoption. Matters of finance and conduct of business will be discussed and permanent officers will be elected.

At a meeting of the Georgia Federation of Labor, the organization of Georgians, Inc., was indorsed and highly praised. Last week, Governor Hardwick named more than 140 prominent citizens from various sections of the state as official delegates to the meet. Hal M. Stanley, president of the organization committee, declared Monday that several hundred persons were expected to attend the convention.

The program for today follows: 10 a. m., registration; 11 a. m., breakfast; 11:30 a. m., session. W. F. Smith, president, presiding. Macon district.

Statement as to temporary organization and plans for the future, by the temporary chairman.

Cup Presented to Winning R. O. T. C. Rifle Team By Major General D. C. Shanks, of Fourth Army Corps

Presentation of a large loving cup to fifteen Atlanta high school cadets, composing the winning Junior R. O. T. C. rifle team, by General David C. Shanks Monday, was the climax of two months competition among the rifle teams from various R. O. T. C. junior outfits in the Fourth army corps area. The presentation took place at the army headquarters in the Red Rock building. General Shanks made an appropriate talk, commending the Atlanta boys for their good marksmanship. The cup was won last year by the Castle Heights Military academy team, of Lebanon, Tenn.

The boys that composed the Atlanta rifle team are J. L. Spencer, C. H. Ward, H. M. Edwards, E. B. Walker, Roy J. Boston, N. B. Forrest, L. W. McPherson, E. T. Barner, E. B. Guller, A. H. Scott, H. W. Gorman, R. J. Rakestraw, T. C. Lieb, O. C. Wise and L. J. Donovan.

There are nine or thirteen million things in this well-known republic that elicit our admiration; none, however, more than the woman who does her own work and still has time to keep her oldest daughter at her piano lesson.—Buffalo Evening Times.

Atlanta Woman Wins Beauty Prize In Albany, N. Y.

Mrs. June Ryder Chosen by Valentino as Queen of Ballroom in Contest.

Albany, N. Y., May 7.—(Special.) June Ryder, dark-haired southern beauty, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., but now residing at 103 Jay street, Albany, N. Y., may some day play opposite the "Sheik."

Last night, by popular acclaim, Mrs. Ryder, a bride of only one year, was chosen as the most beautiful woman in Albany.

A pair of Valentino dolls, miniatures of the hero of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," and his wife, the stepdaughter of Richard Hood, were presented to the future movie queen by the star, with the promise that she will be invited to New York to compete in the national contest, from which will be chosen Valentino's leading woman.

Task Is Difficult.

Valentino had no easy task to pick the winner, as the armory here was filled, and to be chosen the prettiest woman among such an array of pretty women is in reality a great honor. For Albany is noted for its beautiful women.

Before the arrival of the star, and he came well guarded by state policemen, from swarms of cheering women, the best pair of dancers were also chosen. This contest, also judged by popular acclaim, was won by Albany dancers, Miss Cora Fish and James McMahon.

Given Loving Cup.

The couple was presented with a large silver loving cup by Valentino who first illustrated that dancing is more than just dancing; it's an art.

First the orchestra came, as wild a bunch of pirates as ever left the gold coast, dressed in gold earrings, bandanas and gold-dollars sewed onto their yards of sash. They warmed up first with a lively tune, but soon that long drawn tango wail crept in and then—

He came, guards before him, guards behind him, on his arm a beautiful woman, the whiteness of her skin set off by the straightest of black Spanish gowns, two large red roses in her smooth black hair, like two rubies in their setting.

They danced. The lights were low. The flash played on the dancing figures. The pirates played their best and the leader wielded his bow as though it had been a cutlass.

CLEMENCY SOUGHT FOR G. C. CURTIS, OF SAVANNAH, GA.

Efforts to obtain a pardon or parole for Grover C. Curtis, of Savannah, who is serving a sentence of two to five years for slaying Iris Brown, a child, while engaged in a pistol duel with James A. Bailey, who was killed by Curtis, were begun Monday, when attorneys for the latter appeared before the state prison commission and presented an application.

According to records in the case, Curtis accused Bailey of improper conduct with his wife and was on the verge of shooting him when he was prevented by persons standing nearby. The pistol was discharged during the interference and the child was killed. Curtis then broke away from bystanders and fired upon Bailey, killing him instantly. He was tried for killing the child, convicted of involuntary manslaughter and sentenced to serve from two to five years.

The indictment charging him with the killing of Bailey was entered upon the dead docket and was never tried.

Curtis was represented before the prison commission by Attorney Herbert Clay.

POISONED BY LIQUOR
Parker Believes Fluid Was
"Horse Medicine."

Police are probing the poisoning Monday afternoon of J. B. Parker, 36, of 603 East Fair street, who was rushed to the Grady hospital in a critical condition after he is said to have drunk corn whiskey.

But for the heroic work of Dr. Eugene Weary, who has charge of the clinic, Parker would probably have died within a few minutes after reaching the hospital, it is said.

Parker claims to have bought the whiskey at a stable on Grant street, and, after being revived, stated he must have been sold "horse medicine" instead of liquor.

ORGANIZE CIVIC CLUB
IN PEACHTREE HILLS

The Peachtree Hills Improvement club will be formally organized tonight when citizens of that neighborhood gather at the residence of S. Baum, 26 Peachtree Hills avenue. Better streets and other improvements will be sought by the "community" through the club, it is said.

Frank R. Campbell is temporary secretary and treasurer. Permanent officers will be elected tonight.

H. C. MORRIS INDICTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Action Follows Death of Mrs. J. K. Ramsey in Automobile Accident.

H. C. Morris, of 2837 Peachtree road, Monday was indicted for involuntary manslaughter, following the recent death of Mrs. J. K. Ramsey, who was struck several weeks ago by an automobile operated by Morris. The accident occurred at West Peachtree and Fourteenth streets.

Mrs. Ramsey is the mother of H. K. Ramsey, imperial kligrapp, of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and who lives at 73 West Fifteenth street.

SERIOUS SITUATION CREATED BY RAID

War Department Ready to Back Any Plan Approved by Ministers and State Department.

Washington, May 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—Action of Chinese bandits of Shantung province yesterday in holding up an express train and capturing a number of foreigners, including nineteen Americans, has created a situation regarded as seriously affecting the continuance of friendly relations between the United States and China. The situation is held by some officials as containing elements of still broader scope, possibly involving other governments in a similar entanglement with China.

Minister Schurman, at Peking, in an official report to Secretary Hughes, received today, openly characterized the developments as serious and was immediately instructed by the state department to press his inquiry, report the facts to Washington and make strong representations to the Chinese government.

Still other steps were said to be in progress, but officials here declined to throw any further light on the course taken by Minister Schurman. It was indicated that many phases of the situation which could not be the subject of detailed instructions from Washington were left in the hands of Mr. Schurman for execution.

Concerted Action.

One of these was understood to be the question of initiating a concerted military action against the bandits, in co-operation with the Chinese government in the event the Chinese authorities proved ineffectual and no other effective way of attaining the early release of the prisoners was found.

The council of ministers of the various governments represented in Peking is expected to meet tomorrow to discuss a course of action.

Acting Secretary of War Davis, after a conference with Secretary Hughes, announced that the war department was being informed of the situation and was ready to "back up" any plan approved by the council of ministers and the state department.

Under the final protocol signed in September, 1901, by the governments which participated in the expedition, an international military force has been maintained in China for the purpose of keeping open communication between the capital (Peking) and the sea.

Has Force in China.

In accordance with this agreement the United States has at present a force of 35 officers and 888 men stationed at Tientsin under command of Brigadier General William D. Canine. Official government statistics show that Belgium maintains one officer and 14 men at Peking; the British 31 officers and 944 men; the French 24 officers and 1,050 men; Italy one officer and 35 men; the Japanese 39 officers and 1,082 men, and the Netherlands one officer and 70 men. There is also at Peking one battalion of United States marines stationed as a garrison.

A composite military force of this nature, in the opinion of military experts, would be more than sufficient to cope with the bandits in Shantung. It is also pointed out that the mobilization of such force would have a decided salutary effect upon brigands and irregular forces in China and probably would be of material assistance to the Peking government in solving its difficulties and ridding the country of such disturbing elements.

It is believed that any treaty provisions under which foreign troops are stationed in China would not operate to restrict any concerted military action should the Chinese central government prove ineffectual to cope with the bandits, it is pointed out, under the general principles of international law, government has failed to maintain the security of life and property.

The Mexican Expedition.

It was recalled that the punitive expedition into Mexico led by General Pershing in 1916 was used under circumstances similar to those which exist in China at the present time. Even the reports from Minister Schurman, telling of the release by the bandits of Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the Misses McFadden and Schenck, and of the stringent orders issued by the Chinese government to the Shantung authorities failed to relieve the tension which has been keyed high since first reports were received.

A paraphrase of Minister Schurman's report which contained the list of 19 Americans "believed to have been on the express train from Shanghai to Peking which was held up by bandits" was made public by the state department.

The Chinese legation was without word from Peking today but it was assumed that Minister Sze, who is expected to arrive here tomorrow from China, would communicate immediately with the Peking legation office to obtain information or instructions on which he would base discussions with Secretary Hughes of conditions in China.

SMITHVILLE SCHOOL GIVEN MALARIA TESTS

Smithville, Ga., May 7.—(Special.) Dr. S. T. Darling, of the Rockefeller foundation, in conjunction with the state board of health, made an examination and blood test of 101 school children at Smithville Consolidated High school to determine the extent of malarial infection in the children. Dr. Darling, together with Dr. F. W. O'Connor, is spending some time in Lee county studying the conditions and making examinations and recommendations for fighting the mosquito and malaria. Much interest is being manifested in their work.

quite sure no reduction would be made in the vegetable oil schedule, and he authorized the statement that, in his opinion, the peanut growers of Georgia and other southern states had no occasion to fear any adverse effect on the market.

It is possible that the tariff commission may grant hearings on the proposal made in some quarters to revise the vegetable oil schedules, he said, "but the statement of the president today leaves no doubt in my mind that the commission will not tamper in any way with it and hence the peanut growers of the south have nothing to fear. It is probable that an announcement by the commission of a purpose to grant a hearing may cause some anxiety, but the growers should not allow this mere formality to stampede them. It would be pretty hard for the commission to recognize the recognized right of petition."

"I know that the bears on the market will try to use to their own advantage the fact that the tariff commission shows a willingness to hear the soap men, the paint and varnish men and others who are opposed to a tariff on vegetable oils. But the president's assurance that there will be no interference with a schedule that is demonstrated to be fair should have a calming effect on the minds of the growers."

Accorded Honor.

Mr. Walker called on the governor of the federal reserve board and was accorded the courtesy of admission to a private hearing then in progress. The board has an ironclad rule that none but members and those having a direct interest in the matter under discussion shall be admitted to private hearings. This rule, however, was quickly and cheerfully relaxed when the distinguished Georgian was presented to Mr. Crissinger.

Mr. Walker is particularly interested in the subject of branch banks and this matter was under discussion when he visited the board today. Mr. Walker said he intended to address himself to the task of so revising the tax laws of Georgia as to compel every citizen to make an equitable contribution toward the cost of the state government. He said he was quite aware of the stupendous difficulties in the way, nevertheless he was determined to make the effort.

"Invisible wealth must pay its proper share of the taxes, and I am going to charge myself with the task of compelling it to do so," said the governor-elect. "I know I have undertaken a tremendous job, and I am quite aware of the difficulties which confront me. But we must find a way to compel wealth to pay its proper share of the cost of government, and invisible wealth especially must not be permitted always to conceal itself from the assessor."

Reserve Bank Hearing.

He took a keen interest in the hearing before the federal reserve board to determine whether the branch bank to be located in Havana, Cuba, shall be attached to the Atlanta or Boston district. As Havana is by all proper tests in the Atlanta federal reserve district, the governor believes the bank should be under the supervision of the southern financial authorities.

Former Governor Harding, of the federal reserve board, but now governor of the bank of Boston, made a strong plea for the New England metropolis. As Mr. Harding is an Alabamian, it is difficult for Georgia to understand why he is ready to deny Atlanta her right to control and supervise the Havana bank.

"For the life of me I cannot see how it is possible for Mr. Harding or anybody else to turn this proposed Havana bank over to the federal reserve authorities in Boston," said Mr. Walker. "Havana geographically and financially is in the Atlanta district and only by an arbitrary assumption of authority can it be taken out. Whatever benefits come from the establishment of an American federal reserve bank in Havana belong of right to Atlanta and the south."

Decision of the matter will probably be deferred until the new dirt farm member is able to qualify and give consideration to the subject. It is more than likely that he will vote for Atlanta.

WOMEN TELL STORY OF CHINESE TRAIN RAID

compartments. Others held candles while the passengers, at the point of the bayonet, were ordered to stand still or die.

Then the marauders took every one's personal belongings. The search for loot lasted two hours, while the women passengers shrank before the grimaces of brigands.

When the bandits thought they had all the loot to be found, they ordered everyone from the express, in night clothes, only a few being permitted to snatch up overwraps.

Six Dutch and Italian passengers and one Chinese woman flattened themselves beneath their berths and escaped discovery.

The rest were marched away over the boggy lowlands towards the mountains. The lone Chinese woman who escaped said she heard shots fired as the captives were being marched away.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Pinger staggered and stumbled along for two miles with the rest of the hostages. They could hear no more, nor move another step.

Let Them Drop Behind.

Seeing they were completely exhausted, their captors let them drop behind. Off across a bleak wasteland they saw lights of a village. This they reached after great suffering, and here they found the train crew from the wrecked express, who promptly proceeded to "rescue" them, and claim the honors for having done so.

Off in the hills, to which the brigands have withdrawn with the women's husbands and the other prisoners, the country stretches barren, devoid of comfortable shelter or clean food.

In Peking it was evident to all foreigners concerned over the kidnapping that the Chinese populace and government was only mildly disturbed. Foreign officials hint that the abduction was nothing.

REPORTER TELLS STORY OF RAID.

Shanghai, May 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—Lloyd Lehrbas, reporter on the China Press of Shanghai, formerly of Pocatello, Idaho, and of the Chicago Tribune, who escaped from the bandits who held up the Peking express on the night of May 5, arrived today with the first eyewitness story of the affair.

Women beaten, shoved ahead as they lagged behind, spat upon by the bandits and some of them eventually left where they dropped in their tracks as the marauders set a terrific pace over the hilly country, was the picture drawn by him. American newspaper man who himself escaped clad only in his pajamas.

MEN AND WOMEN CLAD ONLY IN NIGHT ROBES.

Lehrbas said he was in the hands of the brigands for three hours. With the others captured on the train, men and women, most of them were routed from their berths. He was driven away from the scene of the hold-up in his bare feet, while the guards about the party continually menaced them with revolvers and rifles.

The bandit who was guarding Lehrbas, the newspaper man said, was hidden in a berth wrapped in a sheet snatched from a berth in the train. He dropped some of his booty and as he stooped to recover that, the darkness and hid in the tall grass.

"Lehrbas said the first knew something was wrong when he was awakened by the train bumping over the stretch of track which had been torn up by the brigands. Then followed a volley of shots that broke the windows in the coaches along the entire train."

The newspaper man said he wedged himself under the berth and remained there while, one after another five bandits searched the compartment. A tented from beneath the berth and he promptly wrenched a gold ring from his finger. Then the bandit stuck the muzzle of his carbine under the throat of Lehrbas and crawled out to join the other captives.

NAMES OF PRISONERS OF CHINESE BANDITS.

Lehrbas gave the names of the following as being in the party of which he was a member, as the bandits drove them into the hills:

Major Robert Allen, U. S. A., medical corps; Major Roland Pinger, U. S. A., ordnance department; their wives and Roland Pinger, aged 8, who still is a captive with his father, and Edward Pinger, four, who later was released with his mother; Robert Allen, son of Major Allen, still held captive; J. A. Hinely and C. Jacobson.

Lehrbas said he saw a white man, who had been traveling in a third class carriage of the train, shot dead by the brigands.

All the passengers lost everything they had with them, except the night clothes in which they slept when the bandits raided the train.

Mexicans Are Held.

Shanghai, May 7.—(By The Associated Press.)—Senior Ancira, paper mill magnate of Guadalajara, Mexico, and his wife, who had been visiting in Shanghai, are among the prisoners held by the Suchoo train bandits.

Scraps Not Captured.

Peking, May 8.—Robert P. Scripps, editorial head of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, who was believed to have been kidnapped with other Americans by Chinese bandits Sunday is safe in Peking, it was established Monday night.

Scraps and his party who were scheduled to have taken the train which was wrecked by the bandits, took a later train from Shanghai, and consequently escaped the wreck. Scripps was at the scene of the kidnapping, and has now reached Peking.

CHINESE BANDITS RELEASE WOMEN

$1,000,000 ransom—greatest in the history of Chinese banditry—would not be met.

Captive Americans.

Among the Americans understood to be captives are J. B. Powell, secretary of the American chamber of commerce, and a newspaper correspondent; Major R. H. Pinger, U. S. A.; captain Allen, U. S. A., both of whom were on duty in the east; Leon Friedman, J. A. Hinely, E. Genberger; F. Elias and E. Elias, A. L. Zimmerman and N. V. Hammett, and Lee Solomon.

New travels, unfortunately, in this section of China, and conflicting reports have come in throughout the day that followed the catastrophe. It seems definitely established, however, that:

Miss Lucy Aldrich, her companion, Miss MacFadden, a maid, the wives of the army officers and possibly other women who were on the train, are safe, although Miss MacFadden is ill and suffering from exposure at Pin Cheng, near the scene of the wreck, whither consuls from Tientsin, Shanghai and Nanking are speeding with physicians.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Pinger were able to tell a graphic story of the night of horror when the express, its passengers asleep and dreaming of no danger, was hurled from the rails and the bandit horde descended upon it, looting and firing terrifying volleys.

Hundreds of Passengers.

The Shanghai-Peking express pulled out of the former city Saturday morning. It was loaded with foreigners who traveled in luxurious coaches, were three or four hundred Chinese. The roadbed, best of China's inadequate rail system, wound through low hills, skirted a great lake and marsh near where it crossed the Shantung river as it approached Lincheng. The train steamed on into the night, roaring steadily along towards the fatal cut where, unknown to anyone, the bandit horde lay in wait. It was about 2 o'clock in the morning when the attack was made.

A volley of rifle fire was poured into the express from either side of the roadbed. The night was made hideous with wild yells. Then, before the passengers were more than half awake, the rails, weakened by the bandits, gave way and the train plunged into a ditch.

As the express crashed in gigantic jerks that hurled its passengers from their berths and seats and came to a halt, the rifle fire of the bands outside increased. Brigands by the hundreds came pouring from their places of concealment and fell upon the train with gun-bullets and hatchets.

Stripped of Jewels.

With no time to even cover their night attire, men and women occupants of the foreign coaches were ordered rudely from the train at the point of rifles. Women were stripped of their jewels and belongings. Even the eye-glasses were taken from men and women. Bags were cut open and yellow hands thrust in, taking everything.

Barfcoat, through tangled wreckage and overground strewn with broken glass from the train windows, the passengers were forced to walk to a spot indicated by the captors.

The looting went on, while the half-clad women crouched together in terror, not knowing what their fate was to be.

Terrifying March.

Then began a terrifying march towards the hillside wastes, fierce armed bandits peering into the faces of their prisoners as they strode along, setting a pace that was hard and bleeding feet found difficult in following.

Many Chinese were among the prisoners taken into the hills, and it was one of these, an aged yellow man, who hobbled to the nearest government station late Monday with the arrogant demands of the brigand leaders.

One million dollars in ransom, freedom from attack by the troops the bandits knew soon would be on their trail, and full pardon after the money had been paid over was what was asked. The lives of the prisoners were obviously a forfeit.

The message bearer, who had been taken from the wrecked train among the other captives, reported that the brigand band was being rapidly augmented on its return. Hundreds of other Chinese, he said, were flocking to the standard of the chieftain, who directed the daring raid, until, he estimated, fully five thousand now sought a place in the band and a share of the plunder.

Troops in Pursuit.

Meanwhile, word of the disaster had reached Shanghai, Shantung and Peking, and government troops numbering 5,000 set out after the kidnappers.

In the waste country they came upon the retreating horde, and sought to close in on either side. The bandits, who can scarcely escape assuming the proportions of an "international incident," however, foreign legations are at white heat.

No pains are to be spared to bring the captives safe from the clutches of the brigands, Christian Chinese

DANGER SIGNALS OF INDIGESTION

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning.

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year, when your system "lets down" in tone and vigor with the first approach of warm weather.

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical books tell us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 3. A dull, lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 4. Restlessness, unrefreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5. Irritability, pain, and fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion—you are too apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Dan-Nax, the greatest prescription that was ever written for a digestive tonic.

Dan-Nax immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including the stomach, liver and bowels. Dan-Nax makes your digestion "perfect and complete." You feel its helpful effect from the very first dose. Get a bottle of Dan-Nax today at any drug store. Dan-Nax is so much superior to any other remedy for indigestion that the manufacturers have instructed every druggist to refund the price if you do not get relief, so costs you nothing if you are not delighted with results. Delay might be dangerous, get Dan-Nax today—(adv.)

Central of Georgia Tells What Railroads Are Doing For the Public and What the Public Can Do for the Railroads

American railways are passing through a period of reconstruction. Their situation is due in part to the devastating influence of the World War, and in part to the restrictive policy toward improvements and additions adopted by the government during the twenty-six months of Federal control.

The railways frankly admit that there have been short-comings in their service. They contend, however, that they have made good progress in overcoming these, as evidenced by the fact that during the thirty-seven weeks between July 1, 1922 and March 17, 1923, they handled the greatest volume of traffic ever transported in the history of the country, during any corresponding period of thirty-seven weeks. This achievement was accomplished in the face of obstacles arising from national strikes of coal-miners and of railway shopcrafts.

But the railways are not content with what has been done, and through their organizations they have pledged themselves during the remainder of the current year, to place their locomotives and cars in good repair, to load their equipment to maximum capacity, and to move their cars faster and further. In brief, they pledge more efficient operation, of all the facilities at their disposal, to prevent so far as possible, any delay or interruption to business.

In addition to this, the railways recognize the urgent need of vast expenditures to rehabilitate their properties and to make adequate provision for the constantly expanding needs of public service. To this end, they expended in 1922 for cars, locomotives, track-ages and other facilities, $440,000,000. They have appropriated for equipment and other facilities for the year 1923, the huge sum of $1,400,000,000.

Having taken these definite steps, and having proved their purpose to make good, the railways now come to the public with an appeal for co-operation by the exercise of certain simple and practicable means such as:

(1) Loading equipment as near to its capacity as is practicable with the various classes of commodities, thereby reducing the number of cars required and likewise reducing empty mileage in the return of equipment to producing districts.

IF ALL THE CARS THAT WERE LOADED DURING SEPTEMBER, OCTOBER AND NOVEMBER, 1922, HAD BEEN LOADED TO AVERAGE OF 30 TONS PER CAR (a figure heretofore attained) INSTEAD OF THE ACTUAL AVERAGE OF 27.7 TONS PER CAR, IT WOULD IN EFFECT HAVE ADDED 188,357 CARS TO THE SUPPLY.

(2) Restricting so far as practicable the number of cars shipped under "to order bills-of-lading," which invariably causes delays to the equipment at destination.

(3) Limiting the reconignment of traffic to the greatest possible or practicable extent.

(4) Unloading cars as promptly as possible.

(5) Increasing storage facilities where necessary and practicable and providing adequate siding capacity to facilitate loading and unloading, thereby increasing the number of available cars.

(6) Not ordering cars beyond ability to load daily.

(7) Proceeding early in the season with programs for road and building construction, advance coal storage by industries and public utilities during the summer months, the successful carrying out of which plans should reduce the peak movement to considerable extent in the months of September, October and November.

Over and above these helpful measures, railway management seeks and needs the good will of the people. The men who are trying to keep the railways in step with America's march of progress and to make them useful in enhancing the nation's material prosperity will be aided in their task by public faith in their honesty and capability. Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

SEEK TO PROVE TRUE VALUE OF MORSE PLANT

Washington, May 7.—A judge, a shipbuilder and a certified public accountant were examined today in the Morse trial by government counsel in an effort to establish the true value of the Morse wooden shipyard at Noank, Conn. The government charges that the value of this plant was misrepresented at the time the company obtained a contract for 12 wooden hulls early in the war.

Arthur P. Anderson, judge of the probate court at Noank, who held all of the stock of the yard for the heirs of Robert Palmer and his sons, testified that the stock was sold to the Morse interests in 1916 for $85,000 cash, the purchasers in addition assuming a mortgage for $30,000.

W. A. Fraser, of Noak, who was superintendent of the plant for four years before the sale, stated that the plant was the largest and best equipped wooden shipbuilding yard in the United States in 1916 and that two years before he had appraised it at $150,000. By court order in 1919 he and others again made an appraisal at $108,316. On cross-examination, he said the last appraisal was after shipbuilding had slumped and the plant was idle.

RESERVE BOARD WILL ACT SOON

objected to establishment of federal reserve banks in Cuba, and J. H. Case, deputy governor of the New York reserve bank, voiced a protest against federal reserve banks issuing in foreign exchange. Mr. Matheu, however, said if any bank was to be permitted to open an agency in Cuba, it should be the Atlantic bank.

Keats Warburg Letter.
Mr. Case read into the record a letter from Paul M. Warburg, of New York, former vice governor of the reserve board, stating the board's position on the question of reserve banks banking outside of the United States taken in 1919, when Secretary McAdoo suggested that the reserve banks enter South America. At that time, according to the letter, the board presided over by Governor Harding strongly opposed the entry of reserve banks into foreign territory and Mr. Warburg reiterated the stand as his own in the present case.

Immediately, Governor Harding to whom the Warburg letter had been addressed, read his reply which was to the effect that the reason for the reserve board's position then was the unsettled conditions in foreign exchange brought about by the world war.

Mr. Harding declared conditions have changed and added that the position taken by the board in opposing Mr. McAdoo's proposition was not a precedent by which the board should be guided.

It developed during the hearing that the reserve board feels it must consult the state department before it acts on any applications of this kind. Governor Crissinger declared it might not be satisfactory to the state department for American banks to extend their facilities in Cuba. Governor Harding, in support of Mr. Crissinger's statement, explained the Boston bank had no desire to complicate international relations through the expansion of its banking operations.

Mr. Crissinger said additional information from commercial banking interests as to their attitude in the case would be sought before a decision is rendered.

ATLANTA'S URGE CLAIMS TO CUBAN BANKING BUSINESS

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, May 7.—At the hearing today upon the proposed establishment of a branch agency in Cuba by the federal reserve board, Atlanta's claims were presented by John K. Utley, president of the Fourth National bank and by former Senator Hoke Smith, appearing for the Fulton National bank.

Former Senator Smith told the board that he had found that all sections of the country are in favor of the sixth reserve district handling the Cuban business, with the sole exception of the Boston bank. He also argued that the federal reserve board has no authority to establish a branch agency in Cuba under the provisions of section 14 of the federal reserve act which deals with establishment of branch agencies in foreign countries.

"The only benefit claimed for establishing an agency in Cuba is that of a speedier turn-over of currency," he said. "The sixth reserve bank at Atlanta is now furnishing currency speedily. There is no complaint from American bankers in Cuba or in this country that the sixth reserve bank is not handling the situation satisfactorily."

He said that the Atlanta bank is very closely in touch with Cuba on account of its nearness, while Boston is five days off, and that the argument for speedier furnishing of currency would on this ground be valueless.

Could Arrange for Agent.
If the federal reserve board deems it wise to have closer connection in Cuba, he suggested that it could arrange for the agent in Cuba from the sixth reserve district, who could be one of the American member bankers on the island. That, he argued, would be more expedient than establishing a branch agency of the federal reserve system, which he believes is not under the power of the federal reserve board.

Former Senator Smith's contention that the reserve board has no authority under the act to establish a branch agency in Cuba is upheld in an opinion expressed in a letter read before the board Friday morning by Paul M. Warburg, formerly a member of the board and one time chairman of the war finance corporation, who cited the board's refusal to establish an agency in 1915.

Mr. Harding, expressing his opinion that the board is empowered to establish such an agency, said the board ought not to be governed by the board's action in 1915, which he said should not set a precedent. Harding argued that establishment of a branch agency by the Boston bank would aid Cuba in her present financial difficulties.

Ottley's Argument.
John K. Utley, president of the Fourth National bank of Atlanta, said that the attitude of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank and of the southern bankers is unequivocally in favor of the board making whatever conditions it deems necessary for the sixth reserve bank in its dealings with Cuba.

He emphasized the desire of southern bankers that the Atlanta bank continue to handle the Cuban business, and reiterated the general opposition to establishing of a branch agency of the federal reserve system on the island.

The Atlanta Federal Reserve bank was represented by L. C. Adelson, deputy governor. Other southern bankers present included:

Mills B. Lane, president of the Citizens and Southern bank, Savannah; J. S. Boone, president of the Citizens and Peoples National bank, Pensacola, Fla.; C. W. Faircloth, president National City bank, Tampa, Fla.; C. M. Kendall, vice president Barnett National bank, Jacksonville, Fla.; J. T. Howell, vice president American National bank, Nashville, Tenn.; and Paul Trammell, comptroller American National bank, Nashville, Tenn.

dispatch a note to Germany within 36 hours, expressing disapproval of the latest German reparations proposals and urging Germany to present a more practical and liberal solution of the problem.

Paris Is Unmoved.

Paris, May 7.—Semi-official announcements from London that the British government felt there should have been a joint reply by all the allies appears not to have changed the French viewpoint, officials said this morning that it was practically impossible for Great Britain to join in a reply that would satisfy France and Belgium.

The French government, it was declared, would gladly welcome co-operation with Britain at any time it appeared joint action was possible but it was felt there was still too much divergence in views as to the total sum Germany must pay and the method of collection to make concerted action feasible.

Germany Waiting.

Berlin, May 7.—The German government, despite the flat rejection of its thirty billion gold mark peace offer by France and Belgium, still desires to reach a reparations agreement with the allies.

Members of Chancellor Cuno's cabinet, although greatly discouraged by the Franco-Belgian communication which declared that there could be no reparations negotiations until passive resistance in the Ruhr ceased, still hope to bring an end to war debts tangle.

The German government, however, will make no further moves until America, Great Britain and Italy answer her reparations note.

Despite predictions that rejection of the German proposal would mean the end of the Cuno government, those in high authority Monday stated that the chancellor had no intention of resigning, declaring that there is no necessity for him to step out.

Five-eighths of the people of Belgium speak Flemish, it is estimated.

One Day Only! The Rich Store Offers 50c to $1.25 Wash Goods at 39c! Note Fabrics! Can Any Woman Afford to Miss It?

OUR buyer's face is wreathed with smiles, and there is good reason! He was commissioned to give Atlanta women bargains in wash goods for the 56th Anniversary Sale—at prices to be talked about, and remembered for a long while to come. He laid his plans—went direct to certain great southern mills and reliable importers; he recited Atlanta women's expectations of the Anniversary Sale—reminded the mills of our past large dealings, and won their co-operation. —The result—this remarkable Sale! The mills made astonishing concessions on surpluses and odd lots of new spring merchandise—the buyer bought direct, eliminating the middleman's commission, the traveling salesman's expenses. In addition the Rich store foregoes the usual margin of profit to make this Sale surpass all previous efforts.

—Every table, every counter on the left aisles of the store will be piled high today with new wash goods and white goods. Extra salespeople will be ready to serve you with dispatch. When you see the wash goods you will know you are taking part in a Sale that will add new laurels to the already astonishing success of the Anniversary Celebration. Hundreds of women will be here at 9 o'clock this morning.

STATE TO PROBE POPELL'S DEATH

Officials Do Not Believe Poison Theory, But Desire Thorough Investigation Made.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 7.—The state's executive department will see that a thorough investigation, if warranted, is conducted into the death of Jerry Poppe, former jailer and star witness in the legislative investigation of the death of Martin Tabert, of North Dakota. It was determined this afternoon after a conference of Representative Davis with the govern-nor and attorney general.

Mr. Davis carried the executive first news of Poppe's death, it is understood. Previously he had considered the advisability, with Representative Kennerly, of asking that the legislative committee be directed to have an autopsy performed on Poppe's body. Poppe died at Quincy Saturday night while enroute by motor with his family to appear before a federal grand jury in connection with a peonage case growing out of the inquiry into Tabert's death. The immediate cause of the former jailer's death was given as apoplexy.

There was little tendency in official circles to believe that Poppe's death was brought on by other than his heavy drinking of moonshine whisky and little credence was given to reports that he had been given wood alcohol. The fact that the man had just concluded his testimony here and was on his way to give more accusations, coupled with a statement just before death attributed to him by his widow, that he had been poisoned, prompted officials to decide upon an inquiry which will determine whether they consider further investigation necessary.

It was indicated that the attorney general might act through the county judge at Quincy and seek a statement from Dr. R. F. Goddard, of Quincy, who attended Poppe.

Dr. Goddard stated over the telephone last night that Poppe's death was due to apoplexy. His first symptoms and described his first symptoms and subsequent pains until his death. A coroner's inquest was not held at Quincy, it is understood, and when the body arrived here it was taken promptly to the cemetery and buried.

SHELTON SENTENCED FOR SHOOTING WOMAN

Atlanta Contractor Gets Two to Four Years for Attack on Miss Williams.

Augusta, Ga., May 7.—In Richmond superior court today R. F. Shelton, an Atlanta contractor, was found guilty of assault with intent to murder and was given a sentence of from two to four years.

On March 4 Shelton went to the Augusta home of Miss Annie Laurie Williams and fired upon her five or six times. Three bullets took effect, two in the right arm and one in the neck, and as the result of her wounds.

FIGHTING NEGRO WOULD AID LUCIEN

Troupe at his Valdosta plantation, a few miles from Captain Yopp's plantation, on the east side of the Ocmulgee river, about seven miles below Dublin. Captain Yopp, my dear old master, often went fishing with the governor at what was known as Troupe Spring.

"After the death of Governor Troupe, about 1857, the daughter of the governor moved from Valdosta to the Blackshear plantation on Turkey creek, and she took Lucien as coachman. Miss Troupe had two gray carriage horses and some fifteen servants at the 'big house,' as she called the residence. She would play the piano for me when I was sent from my master's plantation with a letter and venison that Captain Yopp had killed in 1856.

"With Wheeler's cavalry."
Governor Troupe, was in the Fourth Georgia cavalry in Virginia. Miss Orrilla Troupe sent Lucien to Major Bryant and remained with him until the fall of 1864. Major Bryant passed through Lowndes county with General Wheeler's cavalry, and I am under the impression that Lucien was left at home. When I go to Lowndes county always go to see him, and he never gets tired of telling about 'Mars' Jack fighting the yankees."

It was to me that when the good people of Georgia know the condition of us old 'colored veterans' who fought with our masters in the war of the '60s and remained true, loyal and faithful to our confederates, they will never let us suffer or be in want for the bare necessities of life. And I am sure when they stop to think about it, a sufficient number of interested persons will be able to see that something is done for old Lucien Troupe, a loyal slave and a brave 'confederate soldier.'"

FRANCE PLANNING MORE SEIZURES

Paris, May 7.—The French and Belgian governments plan to seize other industrial products in the Ruhr than coal and coke if the German course of passive resistance is not halted, it has been disclosed.

The plan of further seizures is in consequence of the defiance included in the communication of Chancellor Cuno which offered to meet the reparations account for thirty billion gold marks.

French and Belgian experts Monday started to draw up a reparations plan which will be presented to Germany in case she capitulates and sees for peace in the Ruhr coal war. It was made plain, however, that this plan would not be offered to Germany until she becomes meek in spirit.

Local Police Start Nation-Wide Search For Mamie Mathies

Atlanta police have instigated a nation-wide search for Mamie Mathies, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Mathies, of 209 Parker street, who disappeared from her home about four weeks ago. At the time of her disappearance her father told police she did not have a hat on and was attired in a gingham house dress. Mr. Mathies also told police that his daughter was very sickly.

BACON WILL CASE AGAIN IS MISTRIAL

Widow of Late G. M. Bacon, Cut Out From Will, Claims Husband's Mind Was Unsound.

Marietta, Ga., May 7.—(Special.)
The Bacon will case, that has attracted so much attention in Marietta for the past two years, again has ended in a mistrial. The case went to the jury Friday afternoon and the jurors dismissed Sunday evening when they announced they were unable to render a verdict.

The case was well handled on both sides. Attorneys for the propounders were Lindley W. Camp and Fred Morris, of Marietta, and Westmoreland, Smith & Westmoreland, of Atlanta. Attorneys for the other side were Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta; Morris & Hawkins, Herbert Clay,
Campbell Wallace and L. L. Blair, of Marietta.

The estate of the late Major G.
M. Bacon amounts to about $80,000.
Mrs. Bacon attempted to break the will, claiming that at the time of making the will Major Bacon was of unsound mind, also showing that the property which Major Bacon claimed was belonged to her. She claimed the money used in the purchase of the properties was given by her father.
Mrs. Bacon showed tax receipts to show that the property was originally in her name.

Major Bacon was known as the father of the pecan industry in Geo-gia.

The propounders claimed that the reason that Mrs. Bacon wanted out of from the will was that she treated him very cruelly during the last days of his life. Attorney Westmoreland, of Atlanta, drew up the will which was pronounced by the court as legal battles with the prospects of still another.

OPEN POULTRY FEEDING STATION IN MOULTRE

Moultrie, Ga., May 7.—(Special.)
A poultry feeding station has been opened here by Swift and company, and will be operated in connection with their packing plant. The station opens a market for 5,000 chickens a week. It is believed that it will be easy to obtain that number in the Moultrie territory.

As soon as the industry develops sufficiently to make it profitable, a poultry killing station will be built.
Such a plant would represent an investment of $25,000 and would make Moultrie the biggest poultry market in the southeast.

of the youth; Chief of Police Charles W. Leggett, of Evanston, and policeman who assisted in removing the skelton from the pier after it was found by a boy.

Chief Leggett was questioned at the state's attorney's office today and said that he had talked to Miss Fuchs a few days after Mount disappeared regarding the letter she had received from him and that the girl had indicated the letter showed Mount comtemplated suicide.

Attorney Timothy Bell, representing the Mount family, was also questioned at the state's attorney's office today.
He said he would turn over the letter to the grand jury tomorrow. He described it as "just a kid love letter," and intimated it contained no suicidal reference.

ELKS WILL DISCUSS CAMPAIGN AT MEET

Discussion of the membership drive program, and plans for the Elks' convention which will be held here in July, will be the features of a meeting-luncheon which is to be held by the Atlanta club of Elks at the clubhouse on East Ellis street at 12:30 o'clock today. Judge L. F. McClelland, chairman of the membership campaign committee, will explain the various phases of the drive.

B. C. Broyles, secretary of the club, states Monday that indications are that the membership drive is progressing as expected, but until the various team captains report on Wednesday at the luncheon, the accurate figures of the number of new members will not be known.

Arthur I. May, chairman of the autombile committee, outlined plans to provide visiting Elks with motor transportation.

"There is little doubt," captains of membership teams said Monday, "that the 2,000 new members that are being sought will have their applications filed in time for the ceremonial to take place on June 21."

SUGAR CASE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Federal Circuit Court of Appeals Now Considering U. S. Suit Against Exchange.

New York, May 7.—The federal circuit court of appeals today took under advisement the petition of the federal government for a temporary injunction to restrain the New York coffee and sugar exchange and its clearing association from trading in raw sugar futures unless backed by actual ownership or control of the commodity.

The government's petition was for a preliminary injunction pending a final hearing on the question.

The case was taken under advisement after John W. Davis, former American ambassador to Great Britain, had presented arguments on behalf of the exchange and after his opponents had been answered by counsel for the government.

Mr. Davis asserted there was nothing in the governments petitions to show that the exchange was engaged in an agreement or that there had been any restraint of foreign or interstate trade or commerce as the result of any alleged conspiracy or agreement.

COURT RESTRAINS WALKER KILLED STRIKING MINERS IN AUTO CRASH

Richmond, Va., May 7.—In an order revising and granting an injunction granted by the federal district court for the southern district of West Virginia in the famous "check-off" cases brought by the United Mine Workers of America against the Carbon Fuel company, coal mine operators, the United States circuit court of appeals today held that striking miners, labor agents, representatives or members of the United Mine Workers had no right to the continued occupancy of houses and property belonging to their former employers and enjoined them from trespassing upon the property of the fuel company, or interfering with non-union men now employed in the mines.

The court made no direct ruling on the validity of the "check-off" system by which the United Mine Workers seek to force the fuel company and other operators to withhold from the pay of their employees certain amounts made up by the union for its operations in other fields. District Judge McClintic, sitting at Charlestown, several weeks ago upheld the contention of the fuel company that it had the authority to withhold pay due its employees.

CASH IN

On the advertisements you have read

Daily for a long while you have consciously and unconsciously been reading advertisements. Now is your chance to cash in on those you have read.

Look at the slogans and trade-marks published in our issue of Sunday and Monday. Do you recall what they advertise?

Then all you have to do is to name the products and the manufacturers to which these slogans and trade-marks refer, and write in as few words as possible about one of them, as described in the first rule elsewhere in this advertisement. Then a BIG CASH PRIZE may be yours.

This Is All You Have to Do

- First. Give the number of each of the Slogans and Trade-Marks appearing on this page, and name any one product represented by each Slogan and Trade-Mark, and give the names of the manufacturers of such products.
- Then, using the fewest numbers of letters (letters here refer to letters of the alphabet) making words (words here mean words found in the 1922 edition of Webster's New International Dictionary), and forming a statement in which the name of the product and the name of the manufacturer of such product are both used (the manufacturer's name) will be considered "correct" in quoting the name as used in any advertising; the product will be considered "correct" if the contestant uses the name used by the manufacturer in any advertising; EITHER:
- a. Tell why you prefer to use any product to which any one of the Slogans or Trade-Marks represented on this page refers.
- b. Tell what you consider the best advertising idea to be used by any one of the manufacturers for any product to which the Slogan or Trade-Mark of such manufacturer as shown on this page refers.

(The letters used in naming the manufacturer and the product will not be counted. In other words, the names of the manufacturer and the product selected by the contestant will be excluded when the letters are counted. Abbreviations, except in the name of the manufacturer and the product, will not be permitted. If a hyphenated word be used, the hyphen will not be counted, neither will punctuation marks of any kind be counted.)

By referring to above, all you have to do, state in a few words, is this: Name a product represented by each slogan and trade-mark, giving also the name of the manufacturers, using the numbers of same for identification; then using the least number of simple words for answers "a" or "b."

- Second. Any man, woman, or child, who is not an employee of The Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer. IT COSTS ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO TRY.
- Third. All answers must be postmarked not later than 6:00 p. m., Saturday, May 19, 1923. Address your answer to National Slogan and Trade-Mark Campaign, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.
- Fourth. Answers must be written on one side of sheet only, number each page, and write your name and address in the upper right-hand corner of each sheet.
- Fifth. The person sending in the answer containing the largest number of correctly named products and the manufacturers of such products, to which the slogans and trade-marks shown on this page are referred, and the fewest number of letters (letters here refer to letters of the alphabet) making words (words here mean words found in the 1922 edition of Webster's New International Dictionary), and forming a statement, in which the name of the product and the name of the manufacturer of such product are both used, will win the first prize, the next, the second, and so on until all the prizes offered have been awarded.

In the event of a tie for any prize offered, a prize identical with that tied for will be given each tying entrant.

- Sixth. Candidates may co-operate in answering but only one prize will be awarded to any one household nor will more than one prize be awarded to one group outside of any household, who have worked together.
- Seventh. There are three schedules of prizes. For those who accompany their answers by a subscription the local prizes range from $12.00 to $200.00, and where two subscriptions are sent in, the local prizes range from $25.00 to $400.00. In addition, two subscription prize winners are eligible for the national prizes ranging from $500.00 to $5,000.00. Those who do not send in a subscription are eligible for local prizes from $5.00 to $50.00.
- Eighth. Calvin Stanford, Miss Myra Scott and R.
Winston Harvey, who have no connection with The Constitution or with the Gotham Newspaper Service, will be the local judges in this campaign. They will judge the answers submitted and will make the awards.
The awards will be based on the correct answers to the slogans and trade-marks, and the best ideas on (a) or (b) described in the first rule above. For the national prize two yearly subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution must be attached. All entrants agree to accept the decisions of the judges as final and conclusive.
- Ninth. The judges will make their decisions after the close of the campaign, and the winners will be published in The Constitution as soon thereafter as possible. At the conclusion of The Constitution campaign, the prize-winning answers will be forwarded to the GOTHAM NEWSPAPER SERVICE CORPORATION, and the judging for the twelve national prizes will be made as quickly as possible. The National Prize Winners will be announced in The Constitution.
- Tenth. It is agreed by the entrants that all or any part of essay, article, or suggestion submitted by them may be used without remuneration.

*Two new or one old and one new. Two old subscriptions will not count.

*Two new or one old and one new. Two old subscriptions will not count.

$20,000 IN NATIONAL CASH PRIZES

These prizes will be awarded in addition to the prizes given by The Constitution to the best of all the prize-winning answers received by

MEMPHIS EDITOR FINED ON CONTEMPT OF COURT CHARGE

Memphis, Tenn., May 7.—G. V.
Sanders editor of the Memphis Press, an afternoon paper, was fined $300 and costs in United States district court here today on a charge of contempt of court in connection with the publication, during the strike of railway shompen last summer, of an editorial entitled "The King Forbids."

The allegation was made that the editorial was calculated to create disrespect for the court in which an injunction had been issued in connection with the strike. Mr. Sanders defied the injunction and was therefore held in contempt and fined.

Ten days were allowed counsel for
Mr. Sanders to file notice of appeal.

NEGROES IN BATTLE WITH POLICE OFFICER

Escape Follows Attempted Robbery of New Elks' Club Late Monday Night.

A running gun fight between two negro highwaymen and police on East Ellis street, near the Elks' club, Monday night, following the negroes' attempt to hold up M. C. Kavanaugh, of New Orleans, Mr. Kavanaugh and police were told, started out of the Elks' club, and after having been gone a few minutes, rushed into the club, showing that two negroes attempted to rob him.

Officer T. W. Williams, who is an Elk, ran out of the club and fired at them. One, he stated, fell to the ground, as though he had been shot, but a search revealed no blood on the ground. Both negroes escaped, between a row of apartment houses.
Hospital authorities and negro understand that the police are looking for the lookout for the negro, who is believed to have been shot.

ST. LOUIS NEGROES ARE ENTERTAINED

by the board of directors, to appoint a committee of one hundred to be known as the law enforcement committee.

It was also decided to establish an annual scholarship of $1,000 for medical education, to be awarded to a graduate of a girls' college, by a special committee, according to plans to be worked out and approved by the board. This scholarship is to be given from the interest of an $80,000 fund, now held by the federation, the residue of the War Victory fund. The committee to devise plans for the selection of the beneficiary under this scholarship is composed of Mrs. Elmer Blair, chairman of public welfare; Mrs. J. D. Sherman, chairman of education; and Mrs. Florence C. Floore, treasurer.

Mrs. Winter Presides.
Mrs. Winter, president, presided at the executive council meeting Monday morning. Later a luncheon was given officers of the federation, members of the directorate board, state presidents and departmental and division chairmen at the driving club, the Atlanta City Federation being hostess of the occasion. Another social feature of the opening day was the reception, from 4 to 6, held at the Atlanta Woman's club for delegates, visitors and honorary guests.

Registration headquarters were maintained at the central Y. M. C. A. At the morning meeting of the executive council, Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, of Boston, Mass., was elected chairman of the department of international relations, following the resignation of Mrs. Horace Mann Towne, of Porto Rico. Mrs. Bird was formerly vice chairman of the department and also served on the committee which attended the conference on limitation of armaments, held at Washington. She served on this committee with Mrs. Winter.

Other candidates for the chairmanship included: Mrs. E. O. Leatherwood, director for Utah, nominated by that state; Mrs. Charles Stockton, of New Jersey, nominated by Mrs. Edward Franklin White, of Indianapolis, chairman of the committee on legislation.

Formal Address.

Monday night's meeting was largely devoted to formal addresses of welcome, extending the hospitality of the city and state to the hundreds of delegates from all states in the union, who are attending the council. Mrs.

CALL BELLE ISLE TAXICABS

B. M. Boykin, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, presided. The meeting was opened by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," and "America the Beautiful," led by Mrs. E. R. Hines, Organist Benjamin Barker, of Trinity church, played Gounod's "Marche Militaire" on the great organ and Bishop J. H. Mikell made the invocation.

On behalf of the state, a welcome was voiced by Governor T. W. Hardwick, while Mayor Walter A. Sims officially greeted the gathering and the hall of the city of Atlanta. General David Shanks, U. S. A., commander of the fourth corps area, spoke briefly.

James E. Hays also spoke for the local clubs, and invited the delegates to visit the Tallulah Falls school, which is owned and maintained by the women's clubs of Georgia, during their stay here. At the conclusion of his speech, she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses by Mrs. Hubert Yow, district president from north Georgia.

Dr. Jones Speaks.
The orator of the occasion was Dr. M. J. Jones, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church. He talked upon the subject of "Nationality," telling how nationality was not, in reality a thing of language, geography or other limitations, but a spirit. He declared that not until we awaken the consciousness of kinship, could a nationality be born.

Dr. Jones said that he believed with all his soul in every word of the letter from President Harding, but added that he believed even more than that. He asked why, if it was necessary for America to take her part in the world court, should she stay out of the great functioning agency which created that court, the league of nations?

He made a plea against intolerance, in creed, calling upon the women of America to make such contribution to the spirit of American nationality, that the true definition of the word could at last be written. He told how utterly impossible it is to measure anyone's Americanism in terms of 100 per cent or any other percentage, when the essential of true Americanism is yet, but imperfectly known. He told the clubwomen that they would have contributed the greatest thing in history to Americanism if they could but start the new thought, with all its love and force of truth, that the man who would limit American citizenship on account of race or creed is himself un-American.

League of Nations.
Every mention of the league of nations during Dr. Jones' speech was the signal for prolonged applause from his hearers.

One of the most striking features of last night's program was the singing by the united choirs of Atlanta. This magnificent organization of singers gave two numbers, with Mrs. Susie Bowden Johnson as soloist.

The Atlanta Music club, chorus, Miss Lulu Clark King, director, concluded the program with delightful singing.

Mrs. Winter, in her speech, gave perhaps the closest clue to the power and influence of the federation of women's clubs in modern life, when she stated that their gatherings were always marked chiefly by the intense feeling of friendship. She said that they were all essentially "home women," not exceptional, but at least in their own communities. She told how good it was for them to gather together at periodical conventions and find themselves in an atmosphere of leadership, producing a higher mentality and idealism. She called upon them all, in their deliberations of the week, to be selective and at all times to retain their sense of proportion, not over emphasizing minor details.

Human Progress.
She declared that their work as individuals was not a matter for themselves, to end with their generation, but was part of the great onward flowing stream of human progress toward a greater and better social scheme. To achieve this result, she said, it was essential that they at all times keep in close contact with the new generation springing up and that they always realize that each generation, while taking what it could in contributions to progress from the old, was itself bringing something far greater and better than all preceding generations.

She declared her belief that women of today were witnessing the first breaking of a new dawn of understanding and respect for the rest of the world, a realization of world-wide human relationships.

The tabernacle was comfortably filled by the large numbers of delegates, local clubwomen and their friends. The local committees had made perfect arrangements, and the delegations from the different states were seated together, each being assigned to its own properly labeled pew as it entered. The tabernacle was beautifully decorated with ferns and draperies.

Three important sessions will be held today, morning, afternoon and evening. Morning session is to be devoted to the presentation of the program, by Mrs. George Minot Baker, chairman of the program committee, to the reports of officers and committees, etc. The afternoon session will be featured by addresses by the leaders in the departments of press and publicity, "legislation," "public welfare," etc.

On Tuesday evening, at 6 o'clock, the press department dinner will be given at the Atlanta Woman's club. Members of the professional press of Atlanta will be hosts and hostesses for this occasion and many of the most distinguished members of the press and public relations of the country, have made reservations.

On Thursday afternoon, following a barbecue at Druid Hills club, the delegates will be taken by automobile to Stone Mountain where they will have the opportunity thus of witnessing the beginning of the work of Gutzon Borglum in carving the gigantic memorial to the confederacy out of the living granite of the mountain.

On Tuesday evening, at 8:15, the third session of the day will be held, dealing mainly with the subject of "American Citizenship."

Three business sessions daily will be held every day this week through Friday, with the sole exception of Thursday afternoon.

The program for today is as follows:

President Recommends Joining World Court

President Harding had been invited to address the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in session here during the week, but found that it would be impossible to leave Washington. He sent a message, however, which was read at the Monday night meeting. It is as follows:

"I am writing to acknowledge my appreciation of the invitation to address the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and to express my regret that it is not possible to accept. The broad and important interest which this great organization has taken in public affairs, and its splendidly effective effort to insure that the nation shall derive the utmost advantage from the full participation of womanhood in the responsibilities of public life, entitle the federation to be ranked among the great constructive and educating forces of the land.

"It has been my endeavor to learn of the attitude of this great organization, so long devoted to the consideration of public problems, and to the promotion of the betterment of the world, that our country signify its adherence to the world court of international justice. You will, I am sure, be interested to know that the evidence of nations, which came to me from every part of the country and every element of our citizenship, are such that I leave no doubt that the overwhelming majority of the nation favors the step which has been proposed.

"Furthermore, there are multiplied and increasing evidences that the judgments are being reached as the result of earnest, deliberate and studious consideration of the subject in all aspects. The assurances which are received in increasing numbers, day by day, leave no doubt as to the community's mind. There is a profound conviction that our obligation to human society and likewise our every material interest, equally demand that this nation shall give this sincere and effective proof of its wish to co-operate in eliminating the causes of strife among the nations and peoples. I have heard of you and your associates of the federation to know of these accumulating evidences of a firmly crystallizing opinion. The national heart, conscience, and judgment are alike enlisted, and against these we never need fear that any opposition will prevail.

Practical Attitude.
"Especially I am glad to be able

of the general federation assembled here. It follows:

"Hail to the general federation. The state federation greets this great body of women and bids its members welcome to the state. This convention bids fair to be the greatest gathering of women ever held in the south, and the Georgia clubs are delighted and honored to have the parent organization within their midst.

"The usefulness of the general federation spirit, the magnitude of its vision, and the volume of its accomplishments proves the organization to be one of power and purpose, and makes its very presence a benediction to any state.

"Club women of Georgia are at the service of the general federation, and in welcoming the organization, the state also invites its visitors to visit the federation's 'Light in the Mountains,' Tallulah Falls school.

"The state federation hopes that this convention may be the fulfillment of the hopes and desires of the national officers, and gives to each visitor an unreserved welcome."

Mrs. Boykin's Greeting.
Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, issued the following welcome to the general federation delegates:

"The Atlanta Woman's club extends cordial greeting and heartfelt welcome to the visiting club women and delegates in attendance at the mid-biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in our city this week. Atlanta, known as 'The Convention City,' ranks second in the entire country in the number of conventions it entertains annually; it is the mecca for hundreds of thousands of visitors who gather here from time to time for important occasions. In entertaining the assemblage gathered here this week, representatives of 2,000,000 club women, all Atlanta and the entire state of Georgia are accorded a rare honor.

"The Atlanta Woman's club feels it is peculiarly fitting at this time to be hostess to this important group. Our $350,000 club plant has been completed, and with a membership of nearly 1,400 women, we feel adequately prepared to express to visitors from afar the hospitality for which the Atlanta Woman's club in its own city and state has long been noted.

"The meeting of the biennial council in Atlanta is characterized by three important facts: First, that the Atlanta Woman's club is the first single club to ever act as hostess to the general federation, and that the organization of this club was the outgrowth of a meeting of the general federation in Atlanta, November 3 and 5, 1895, during the cotton states and international exposition. Second, for the first time in the history of the general federation, the council will be an executive body, with all the powers of the biennial except on the election of officers and on the amendments of the by-laws. Third, for the first time in the history of the general federation, the council is held in a state where all per capita dues of the members of the general federation.

"The majority of the twenty-five charter members of the Atlanta Woman's club are still living and will join with their members who have come in since in entertaining the visiting club women. Members of the national board and every club woman and delegates are invited to participate in every feature of the program and social festivities. All meetings will be held at the Baptist tabernacle, where also will be the exhibit of the Atlanta Woman's club home economics department, the Tallulah Falls exhibit, and others. A visit to the Atlanta Woman's club Gallery Intime, where an exhibit of the works of southern painters is placed, will be well worth while."

Piggly Wiggly Stock Sales Being Pushed

Memphis Business Men Express Satisfaction Over Progress Made.

Memphis, Tenn., May 7.—Memphis business men who began today a campaign of personal solicitation for the sale of Piggly Wiggly stock met tonight and expressed satisfaction with the progress of the drive to dispose of the shares. The drive was launched by the Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., "from going broke," but gave out no figures on the number of shares disposed of as a result of the first day's work. The campaign will be continued tomorrow and until the 50,000 shares have been sold and "Piggly Wiggly" has been saved for Memphis, according to the plan of the drive, which followed Mr. Saunders' appeal to the people of Memphis through a newspaper advertisement last week.

Several hundred local business men were active throughout the day in canvassing the city which has been laid out into 28 divisions on the basis of occupations. The organization was shipped into shape Friday and Saturday after the Memphis Chamber of Commerce had endorsed the selling campaign and characterized the Piggly Wiggly business as "Memphis' greatest business asset."

New York Bares Big Conspiracy To Boost Prices

Brokerage Office Flooded With Fake Orders to Buy Stocks.

New York, May 7.—The New York stock exchange has called upon postal authorities to New York and private detectives to ferret out the perpetrators of an amazing conspiracy to boost prices of stocks which was revealed Monday when a flood of fake orders accompanied by spurious checks hit brokerage offices.

The dull Monday market opened unusually strong which caused a hurried investigation. The probe disclosed that brokers preparing for the morning mail, forged checks for $15,000 accompanied by spurious orders for purchase of high-priced stocks. The fraudulent orders, which were executed immediately, caused the

Oglethorpe's Errors Give Georgia 2 to 0 Victory

Humphrey Holds Bulldogs To Three Hits, But Mates Accord Him Poor Support

Andy Chambers Gives Up 6 Hits, But Proves Strong In the Pinches—Maurer and Bryant Are Oglethorpe's Stars.

BY BROWN WHITLEY.

Athens, Ga., May 7.—The University of Georgia nosed out a 2-0 victory over Oglethorpe here this afternoon in spite of the fact that Humphrey, the Petrel twirler, gave up but three scattered bingles during the struggle.

A free pass, a sacrifice, an infield hit and a wild throw to the plate enabled the Red and Black team to score their first one in the seventh inning. Another was added in the eighth when Kemp nudged Ramsey's fly in the left garden, Allen hit through short, and Ramsey scored when David erred on Bryant's throw to first in an attempt to catch Allen. Chambers, twirling for Georgia, gave up six blows, but managed to keep them well distributed throughout the game so that the visitors were unable to get the markers across.

Middlebrook obtained the only extra base clout of the game when he tripled to left in the second frame. For Oglethorpe Bryant and Maurer were the heavy hitters, each of them obtaining two smashes off Chambers.

The Petrels remain in Athens for the final game of the series tomorrow and Sale will be mound duty for the Bulldogs while Peace is expected to work for the Petrels.

Resting Wednesday and Thursday Georgia will meet Auburn here in a two-game series Friday and Saturday.

JACKET NINE WILL PLAY KY.

The Tech baseball team will act as hosts to the nine from the University of Kentucky Friday and Saturday. It is hoped that Tech can maintain the stride that it has set in the last seven games, and defeat the Kentucky boys.

This institution appears on the Tech schedule for the first time. Tech has played many teams, but never Kentucky, so the authorities thought it was high time that the two institutions were getting together. Accordingly a game was scheduled. They have already met once in track. Kentucky sent a team down to the relay carnival held at Tech about two weeks ago. Then comes the two baseball games Friday and Saturday. And next fall, the Kentucky football team will meet the Golden Tornado on Grant field.

But back to baseball. This far the Tech lads from Lexington have shown class in the baseball world. Their average for the season is around seven hundred, and they have credit for defeating some of the best baseball material in the south.

No doubt but what the games will be well worth watching.

Herring-McLaughlin Bout Is For Southern Title

Both Are Rated as Best in the Cotton Belt and Should Be Great Fight. McLaughlin Is in Town.

The junior welterweight championship of the south, a title not to be scoffed at, is the prize for which the auburn-haired twins, Red Herring and Red McLaughlin, will battle in the feature event of the legion card Friday night in the Spiller bowl.

Both will weigh 140 for their match. Together they have bowled over the outstanding of Dixie lightweights and junior welterweights.

No matter who it is, the victor will have a just claim to the championship of the cotton belt.

McLaughlin has been in sight Monday, and immediately went to work in the Tudor gymnasium on Peachtree street. Herring is not due in from Birmingham until Thursday. The clouting Tennessee reports that he is taking his daily run at rope-kicking and punching the bag, and he fancies that Mr. McLaughlin will get the trimming of his young but rather sensational career.

PREPS REACH SEMI-FINALS

GAME POSTPONED.
The Tech. High-Boys' High game was postponed Monday because of the prep track meet at Grant field. No definite date has been set for the game as yet. The announcement was made Monday morning.

The semi-final round in the prep baseball schedule will be played this afternoon with Tech High and University school furnishing the real competition for the afternoon at Piedmont park at 3:30 o'clock. The other games for the afternoon are Fulton vs. Commercial at Grant park; Marist vs. G. M. A. at College Park and Decatur vs. Boys' High at Piedmont park.

A victory for University this afternoon will clinch the prep league baseball pennant as they will then be leading Tech High, who is in second place, by three games and there is no possible way for Tech High even tie the "Bluebirds." A victory for Tech High, on the other hand, will leave the pennant race with University as the favorites with only one game more to win in order to cop the title.

Marist and G. M. A. will have a neat game at College Park because of the fact that Marist and G. M. A. tied the first time they met. The second game ended in a victory for Marist by one run and the game this afternoon is liable to be even better than either of the other two. G. M. A. and Marist are fighting a merry battle for fourth place in the league standing and the game today will have much to do with the final standing.

Marist Is Winner.
Marist easily defeated Commercial, 20 to 2, Monday afternoon on the Marist diamond in a postponed game from last week. The features of the game were few, save the hitting of the entire Marist team. Every man had an eye on the ball and no less than three Commercial pitchers were knocked out of the box.

Bradley was on the mound for Marist and allowed only one or two hits during his stay of six innings in the box and Van Brocklin hurled the remaining two. Commercial scored two runs in the ninth inning on a batting rally that netted three hits.

E. JOHNSON TO CRACKERS

Elbert Johnson, young right-hand pitcher, has been turned over to the Crackers by the New York Yankees, one of the Atlanta club's big league big league affiliates, according to an announcement made yesterday by President Jack Corbett.

Johnson played with Abernethy in the Dakota league last year, winning 12 games and losing 11. The official averages show that Johnson participated in 34 contests. He bats left-handed and is rated as a fairly good hitter.

The addition of Johnson to the Cracker pitching staff is expected to strengthen the Crackers considerably. He is expected to report to Manager Miller some time today and will be in uniform when the Crackers take the field against Little Rock if he should arrive in time.

With Johnson in a Cracker uniform the twirling staff will now number eight. Fred Newberry, a young southpaw who was released to Charleston in the South Atlantic league, reduced the squad and left one more vacancy.

Manager Miller now faces the problem of allowing two twirlers to go on May 17, when all the clubs will be forced to reduce their number to 16 instead of 18 that is being carried now.

BARONS SWAMP CHICKS.
Birmingham, Ala., May 7.—The Barons swamped Memphis here today. The score was 13 to 1. Zahniser was hit and consistently. Flip Neun cracked out a home run to left field in the eighth inning with Hartford on base. Plateau cracked pitched great ball, allowing only 3 hits. He was steady in the pinches and in the fifth with the bases full and no outs, struck out two men and the other fielded out.

Stars of American Team Defeated by Britain's Best; Ouimet Wins Match

Neville, Hunter, Marston, Rotan and Johnston Also Come Through With Win. Dr. Willing Draws Bye.

Deal, England, May 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Seven Americans passed safely through the first round of the British amateur golf championship today. Five others who came over seas hopeful of taking back with them the British title went down to defeat. Two others of the team, S. Davidson Heron and Dr. O. F. Willing, will not get started until tomorrow.

Numbered among the 72 ambitious amateurs who failed today were Jess Sweetser, the American champion, and Robert A. Gardner, captain of the American team, on whom high hopes had rested. Neither played well in the wind that was blowing today—a wind that killed many fond dreams. They readily acknowledged that in getting drubbed they received their desert. With them went down Guy Standifer, of Washington; Reginald M. Lewis, of Greenville, Conn.; and H. S. Lake, of Hartford, Conn.

Those of the Americans who won their matches are Francis Ouimet, of Boston, now the lone member of America's "big three" remaining in the tournament; George V. Rotan, the Texas amateur champion, who breezed along recording pairs of birdies with splendid regularity; Maxwell R. Harrison, of Philadelphia; Harrison R. Johnston, of St. Paul; Fred Wright, Jr., of Los Angeles; John F. Neville, of San Francisco, and Robert Hunter, of Los Angeles.

Ouimet Is Winner.
Ouimet's game did not rise to the heights where so often it has risen to thrill the gallery and wound the spirit of an opponent; but it was good enough to do what he set out to do—to defeat a gray-haired, rather slim gentleman, whom fate named as the first obstacle to his path to possible glory—A. H. Read, of Sunningdale. Ouimet won from Read four up and three to play, and just about the same moment that the Boston player was receiving congratulations from the vanquished, another American, Neville, was having a similar enjoyable experience. It was a noble lord, Viscount Maidstone, the commander from California crushed five up and four to play.

The vigorous young "Jimmy" Johnston never bothered his head about terrible gusts off the channel that seemed so much to irritate Sweetser. Johnston was under fours for 11 holes and that was all he had to play today, as by that time he was nine up on his opponent, H. S. Holden.

Rotan rushed through almost as rapidly. Perhaps he would have attained Johnston's speed had he not lost the third hole, where he had seven, or had he been less badly bunkered on the fifth, where he took six to sink his ball. For the rest of the route Rotan romped along like a record smasher, picking up a half dozen threes in the way to sandwich between his fours. He was out in 28 and was one under four on the last five holes.

Marston Has Easy Time.
Max Marston also had an easy time in defeating Lieutenant Commander Guy Miller seven up and five to play. Wright, however, had a bit of difficulty in drubbing his veteran opponent, Commander Banerman, a task he completed only on the home hole.

The side-tracking of Sweetser and Gardner constituted the sad story of the day. Sweetser was soundly knocked out of the tournament by Noel Layton of the Royal Cinque Ports club, who writes golf for magazines and knows every dip and curve in the Deal course, because it is his home club. Layton disposed of Sweetser by a score of 3 and 3.

Gardner had the satisfaction of going all the way to the 18th hole before passing out, two down. Forrester once was captain of the Oxford golfers and after graduation went to India, where in 1921 he won the championship of the colony. Gardner during the play could not make his iron behave and his putts would not go down as he would have liked them to go. The American was two down at the fourth but he pulled himself together and at the turn was one up. Forrester evened things at the tenth and honors changed several times up to the 14th, after which Gardner could not make his putts sink the ball, losing the 15th, 17th and 18th.

FORFEIT FOR BOUT POSTED

Chicago, May 7.—Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, heavyweight challenger who will meet Jack Dempsey, champion, in a 15-round decision bout at Shelby, Mont., on July 4, today posted Gibbons' forfeit money of $25,000.

It was announced that work would be started Wednesday at Shelby on an arena to seat 40,000 persons and to cost $50,000 for the fight. Billings, Mont., is bidding for Gibbons' training headquarters and it was believed today the challenger may accept the invitation of that city.

THERE are strong cigars that are full of flavor and there are cigars that are mild, but tasteless.

But El Producto combines mildness with a rich, distinctive character that makes every smoke a genuine pleasure. That's the secret of El Producto's hold on smokers—and remember, its blend is uncopyable.

There are many sizes, shapes, colors and prices of El Producto. But there is only one quality—and you'll find that quality never varies. It is the same in every size—and it is the same this year as it was last—and it will be the same next year as it is now.

OCCUPATION TAX DECLARED VALID

Supreme Court Holds Minnesota Has Right to Levy on Valuation of Iron Ores Mined.

Washington, May 7.—Minnesota's occupation tax on the valuation of iron ores mined or produced in that state was declared constitutional and valid today by the supreme court.

Thirty-seven companies, comprising nearly all of those engaged in mining iron ore in Minnesota, and attacked the validity of the law in seven cases and had obtained from the federal district court of Minnesota an order suspending its enforcement.

The suits were based on an assertion that the state, in the guise of taxes, was seeking to exact annually many millions of dollars in a way which was obnoxious to both the Minnesota constitution and the federal constitution and which deprived the companies of equal protection under the law.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Atlanta, Ga., for week ending Saturday May 5, 1923, on shipments sold out, ranged from 12.00 cents to 16.00 cents per pound and averaged 13.86 cents per pound.—(Adv.)

NEW STARS HEARD AT STATION WGM

Miss Marguerite White in Charge of Arrangements of Early Program at Station WGM.

The early broadcast from Station WGM last night was a delightful feature in the history of this station and listeners were given a program of unusual quality and variety. Miss Marguerite White was in charge of program arrangements and was assisted by a quartet of accomplished artists including Miss Mary Elizabeth Wood, pianist; Miss Angeline Eife, pianist; Miss Mildred Campbell, reader, and Mr. Gordon Allison, violinist.

Miss White's debut to WGM listeners was a decided success. She contributed several delightful readings, including "Romance of a Hamlet," "A Sad Mistake," and others. Her enunciation was clear and the interpretation of the comic passages of the readings showed clearly that she is a master of the difficult art of entertaining audiences who hear but cannot see the emotions and gestures which are so fundamental in readings. Miss White exhibited unusual skill and ability as a pianist and her piano solos were thoroughly enjoyed by Station WGM's vast audience of invisible listeners. Her numbers included "Lullaby," and "Spring Dawn," which were given in a manner denoting exceptional training and aptitude. Miss Eife gave the piano accompaniments for Mr. Allison's violin solos in a very acceptable manner and proved her skill as a pianist of the first water. Listeners will be pleased to learn of her return to this station at a date in the near future, when she will be heard in a number of pleasing solos in addition to her accompaniments.

Miss Campbell contributed one very fine reading to the early broadcast and was thoroughly entertaining and thoroughly enjoyable. This number was "She Tells Why They Must Part," and it was given with all the necessary expression to make it a success.

Mr. Allison, a medical student at Emory university, gave a number of violin solos, which were outstanding features of the musical program from this station. Included among his numbers were "Moment Musical," "Crucible Song," "Romance," and "La Zingana." He displayed all the technique and sympathetic interpretation of his numbers that are so vital and necessary for a musician to reach the height of perfection.

No listeners were given a program well up to the usual standard of broadcasts from Station WGM and even the most critical listener could not have been displeased or dissatisfied.

TRIO OF ARTISTS APPEAR TONIGHT

Signor Volpi Plans to Present Three of His Most Advanced Pupils on Tuesday Night.

Signor Emilio Volpi, Atlanta coach of opera and teacher of voice, a conspicuous figure in musical circles of Atlanta, will return to Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, on the 9:30-10:30 P. M. broadcast tonight, presenting a trio of his advanced voice pupils. Mrs. H. H. Harrison, lyric soprano; Rudolph Lehman, baritone, and Thomas Dendy, baritone, will be heard in favorite solo numbers by listeners tonight.

Signor Volpi has sponsored three programs each week at Station WGM for many months, his arrangements being featured in broadcasts from this station. For the past two weeks, however, he has been on a vacation and listeners have greatly missed his Sunday, Tuesday and Friday night programs. Thousands of fans will welcome the announcement of his return to this station tonight and will thoroughly enjoy the splendid musical program he presents in the week of the south's "old reliable" station.

Mrs. Harrison is quite well known to fans of this station and is one of Atlanta's most accomplished vocalists. Her participation in the week of the south's "old reliable" station was her greatest success. Station WGM's invisible audience will enthusiastically welcome her tonight.

In Thomas Dendy and Mr. Lehman, this station will present two baritone, exclusive Station WGM stars, who take first rank with leading vocal stars of the south. They have featured many programs at this station and will divide honors on the late broadcast tonight.

Gigli, the famous Metropolitan grand opera star, recently heard Mr. Dendy's voice and was lavish in his praise of the young man's voice and predicted a most successful career for him.

All in all, tonight's program will be of the usual high quality of broadcasts offered by this station, and listeners will enjoy the variety, balance and quality.

Well, Fine.
Station WGM.
Dear Sirs: Your program coming in fine. You come in loud and clear on my home-made regenerative single tube set. Hope to hear you again and wishing you success in the future, I am, Yours very truly,
OSCAR LEMP.

LATE BROADCAST VERY ENJOYABLE

Array of Brilliant Young Artists Presented to Fans by Miss Lucy Mae Bacon Last Night.

A group of highly gifted and accomplished vocal and instrumental stars blended their efforts on Station WGM's Monday night 9:30 to 10:30 P. M. broadcast, on a program sponsored by Miss Lucy Mae Bacon, lyric soprano and a popular Atlanta teacher of piano. The list of entertainers included Mrs. Emile Breitenbuecher, pianist; Mrs. F. W. Albert, violinist; Mrs. Leslie Boswell, pianist; Miss Mary Ben-Wright, reader, and Miss Julia Ellen Wayne, whistler.

Miss Bacon's delightful and refreshing lyric soprano voice was unusually sweet in "For You Alone," "Kiss Me Again," "Nothin' But Love," and other widely loved song numbers. She is a most charming young artist and enjoys enviable popularity with radio fans. The piano accompaniments for Miss Bacon were played by Mrs. Breitenbuecher, an exclusive WGM star who is extremely popular with music lovers, and who displayed exceptional talent and training in her pianistic.

Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Boswell formed a duo of entertainers which pleased listeners with violin and piano duets. The contributions of this duo of popular Atlanta artists were most acceptable and their invisible audience were greatly augmented. Both Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Boswell are highly gifted young musicians and will be heard on other programs at this station at an early date.

Miss Wayne as a whistler, and Miss Ben-Wright as a reader, received a splendid share of the applause in their contributions to the late broadcast.

The late Monday program was of unusual variety and quite in keeping with the standard of musical programs which Miss Bacon always plans for listeners to The Constitution's station.

Glad You Are.

Director WGM.
Sir: Am enjoying your programs regularly. Would appreciate your broadcasting dates and descriptive matter.

FEATURE PROGRAM WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Bowling-Smith Orchestra Will Feature the Midnight Concert From Station WGM.

Just a gentle reminder... Don't forget that the Bowling-Smith orchestra will feature the mid-night concert from station WGM Wednesday night, and that it will be a program well worth staying up to hear. Reports have been received from listeners in all parts of the country regarding these weekly mid-night concerts and they are highly enjoyed.

Fans will be given one of the most pleasing concerts from the station at the late hour tomorrow night that it has been the privilege of station WGM to offer in several weeks. The Bowling-Smith orchestra is one of the most popular in Atlanta, if not in the south, and has gained wide recognition for its ability to "deliver the goods" whenever snappy orchestration are desired. The personnel of this orchestra might be considered an "all-star cast," for each member is a musician of exceptional aptitude and training.

No one should miss this opportunity of hearing one of the south's noted orchestras in a delightful hour of entertainment from station WGM Wednesday night, and those who miss hearing these boys will regret it. "A word to the wise is sufficient," so some ancient would be Solomon has said.

Not sed.

MISS CROSSLAND AT WGM TONIGHT

Will Sponsor Early Program for Listeners to South's "Old Reliable" Station.

Listeners to the early broadcast from Station WGM tonight will be entertained by a talented array of Atlanta artists on a program arranged and sponsored by Miss Myrtle Crossland, one of Station WGM's most popular young artists.

In addition to Miss Crossland, Miss Frankie Dell Sasser, pianist; Miss Sadie Jones, reader; Miss Dorothy Brogdon, soprano and pianist; and Mr. B. L. Kennedy, tenor, will be heard.

Will Crossland is well known to fans of the nation and has thrilled listeners on countless occasions with her beautiful and well-trained soprano voice. She will be heard tonight in a number of the popular semi-classical and classical numbers.

Miss Sasser is another exclusive WGM star and has been heard on a number of programs from this station recently. She will give the piano accompaniments for several of the vocal numbers in addition to several piano solos.

Miss Jones has entertained listeners with her delightful readings on many programs at WGM. She will give several readings tonight, interspersing the musical part of the program.

Miss Brogdon is another artist who has become a favorite with WGM listeners. She is a very versatile and accomplished young musician and will delight fans with a number of vocal and instrumental solos.

Mr. Kennedy will make his debut at Station WGM at the early hour this evening, and his contributions promise to be delightful features of the 9 to 7 o'clock broadcast. He is a well-known tenor and possess a very virile and forceful voice.

With this quintet of artists scheduled to pass before the microphone of this station, listeners of Station WGM will be given a pleasant hour of entertainment certain to be enjoyed to the utmost by everyone.

"Certainly Fine."

Dear WGM: We have been enjoying your concerts on a home-made detector set. They come in clear and are certainly fine. Wishing you success. Respectfully yours, R. A. LAKE,
Shreve, Ohio.

STUDENTS ARRESTED ON THEFT SUSPICION

H. R. Connell, 24 years old, and Oakley Stephenson, 29 years old, who lives on Graham street, Georgia, were arrested by Call Officers Jack Kirk and C. B. Saturday early Monday morning under suspicion of connection with the theft of automobile accessories.

Connell was released under $1,000 bond, a charge of disorderly conduct being docketed against him. Stephenson was given a copy of charges by Police Chief Beavers' Attorney Bert Troutman has been retained to defend both.

Arrest of Connell and Stephenson followed an investigation by Call Officers Kirk and Saturday of complaints that an effort was being made to steal a large touring car in Jackson street at Wabash avenue. While the officers were inspecting the car, thieves were trying to steal. Connell drove his machine past the officers, going in the direction of Forrest avenue. The officers became suspicious of the men riding in the auto as they had no tail light.

The officers got in the call car and drove into North Boulevard, where they passed the machine containing Connell and Stephenson going in the opposite direction. This time they turned through a narrow street as if to go into Jackson street, but backed out into Boulevard again as the officers went into Jackson street to cut them off.

They again circled around and were overtaken by the officers, who discovered a license tag on the floor in the rear of their car and two plates in the rear end. Connell explained that he found the license tag that was fastened on top of the one issued to him.

Mrs. Wickliffe, of New Orleans, Is Distinguished Visitor

Mrs. Lydia Wickliffe, of New Orleans, is one of the many distinguished visitors in Atlanta this week attending the mid-biennial council and is being extensively entertained.

Mrs. Wickliffe is honorary president of the Louisiana League of Women Voters, and has been untiring in her work for this organization as legislative director.

The legislative work of Mrs. Wickliffe began in 1914 when she began to fight for a mother's pension. She was made a committee of one, named by Lieutenant Governor Mouton to study conditions in other states and report back to the senate. This was done and a pension bill is on the statutes today with a question of its constitutionality in doubt.

During the war Mrs. Wickliffe had a resolution passed, advocating equal pay for equal work through the legislature and had an amendment added to the defense council bill requiring registration of all women as a war measure. In 1918 Senator Leon Hays introduced a bill for state suffrage for the women of Louisiana, which was passed and submitted to the people of Louisiana but defeated by the machine of New Orleans.

During the 1920 constitutional convention held in Louisiana Mrs. Wickliffe was legislative chairman for the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Wickliffe had declined being made state chairman when the women's suffrage party became the Women's League of Voters, but accepted the honorary chairmanship, and since the league's formation has acted as its legislative director. During the convention three articles were written into the constitution through the efforts of the league and at their instigation, that is, an article requiring the state to maintain a mother's pension bill; giving the legislature the right to call itself into extra session up on a petition signed by two-thirds of the members of both houses; also a provision for absentee voting. Mrs. Wickliffe has lobbied for women's welfare since 1914 at every session of the legislature. During the war, she was appointed on Governor Pleasant's bureau of speakers. She was one of the organizers of the Louisiana state council of defense, women's division; was state chairman of the women's division for war-saving stamps.

Her ability as a speaker was given recognition during the last presidential campaign when she was appointed on the bureau of speakers of the democratic party. She stumped three states, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio.

The women of Louisiana voiced their opinion of Mrs. Wickliffe when the Louisiana League of Women Voters, in an inscription on a silver vase presented to her which reads: "To Lydia Wickliffe Holmes, from her friends as a token of appreciation of her tireless work for womanhood."

Georgia State Executive Board Will Be Hostess at Dinner

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the week will be the dinner to be given Wednesday evening, at 6 o'clock, at the Atlanta Woman's club, by the executive board of the Georgia State Federation of Women's clubs, to the women composing the board of the council of the general federation. Mrs. Robert K. Randle, assisted by Mrs. M. J. Jones, is chairman of arrangements. A real southern dinner is planned, with table decorations in white and green, the federation colors. Unique place cards, which will be souvenirs of Georgia, have been prepared.

The quartet of the Emory University Glee club will sing, and Mrs. J. R. McNelly will sing a group of Frank Stanton's songs.

Mrs. James E. Hays, state president, will preside. At the table with Mrs. Hays will be seated the officers of the council, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Mrs. W. L. Jennings, Mrs. Wallace Perham, Mrs. H. L. Godfrey, Mrs. Florence Foose, and the officers of the state federation, Mrs. Archibald Brantley, Mrs. V. T. Sanford, Mrs. Albert Hill, Mrs. A. H. Brenner, Mrs. J. Spole Lyons. The other guests will be the chairmen of standing committees of the general federation council, the chairmen of departments, past presidents and vice presidents, state directors and state federation presidents and the executive board of the Georgia Federation of Clubs. Two hundred guests will be present.

Tallahul Falls Trip Will Be Interesting Feature of Biennial

One of the most attractive features of the convention will be the pilgrimage to Tallulah Falls.

The advance guard will leave in automobiles from the Atlanta Woman's club Friday at noon.

The fifth district will serve luncheon to the delegates at the Cliff house. Accommodations will be provided for those wishing to remain overnight and an opportunity to attend the barbecue at Laurel Falls camp, one of the most beautiful camps for girls in the United States.

The road investigating committee has just returned from Tallulah and report the roads in excellent condition.

The trip can be made in about four hours.

Tickets may be secured at convention headquarters and Tallulah Falls exhibit.

Price of tickets including two dinners, $3.

Fulton U. D. C.'s To Meet Thursday

Fulton chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, have their regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon, May 10, at Edison hall at 8 o'clock. Important matters of interest to the confederate veterans will be discussed and the question of meetings during the summer months is to be decided upon.

Those members who have not paid 1923 dues are especially urged to attend. The treasurer, Mrs. R. J. Young, will be at the hall early to collect the unpaid dues.

General N. B. Forrest will give a talk on the Stone Mountain memorial. All confederate veterans and daughters of the Confederacy are invited.

Miss Gilreath Is Honored

Mrs. P. L. Loveless and Mrs. Howard T. Lewis entertained on Monday at a bridge-tee at their home on St. Charles avenue in compliment to Miss Annie Mae Gilreath, whose marriage to Edward Lionel Bruce will take place May 10.

The rooms where the guests were received were decorated with spring flowers arranged in silver baskets and placed on the mantles and bookcases.

Following the game tea was served at the individual tables. Sixteen guests were invited.

Miss Weldon Gives Bridge Tea

Miss Marjorie Weldon entertained Monday at a bridge-tee on Piedmont avenue in compliment to Miss Katherine Barrett, of Miami, Fla., who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ellis.

The rooms were artistically decorated with spring flowers. The tea table was overlaid with lace, and in the center was a silver loving cup filled with pink roses and yellow snapdragons. Encircling the central decoration were silver candlesticks.

Miss Weldon wore a gown of gray crepe.

Miss Barrett was gowned in peach-colored crepe and wore a large purple hat.

Mrs. Weldon wore black crepe heavily headed.

Snowdrift
in a new blue airtight bucket as easy to open as winding the clock!

THE new blue and white bucket is absolutely airtight. When you open it in your kitchen, you will find Snowdrift, rich, creamy, white and as fresh as the day it was made. But it is a more convenient bucket than the old airtight tin. You do not need a can-opener. It opens with a little key that twists off a narrow strip of tin, leaving a smooth edge and a well-fitting cover that goes back on,—to keep Snowdrift clean and sweet until the next time you're ready to cook.

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

CHAPTER XVIII.

"You really care for the Field girl?" pursued Miss Leonie in languid vein, and pretending to another slight yawn. "You're very much in earnest over her?"

He raised his brows.

"Should I be wasting my time in arguing out this matter, if I weren't? If I hadn't determined to make her my wife, do you think for one moment that I'd give a darn for all the slandering stories that could estrange us?"

"No, I suppose not." Then looking more closely at him: "You're a strong man, Warwick, and ruthless one. You'll walk over anybody to grab what you wanted, irrespective of the harm you did."

His lips curled in a sneer.

"Rather late in the day for you to become a moralist!"

She did not, finally, after all, after marriage!"

"As a matter of fact, it's pretty beastly to let another woman down. I never was a particular friend of the Marcella girl, but I feel I ought to stand by her, in this instance."

The man broke into a harsh laugh. What a consummate "poseur" was this pert young female!

And he'd done so much for her! This was his thanks!

But she evidently wasn't to be "got around." He must change his tack.

"Look here, Leonie, we've always been good pals. Why not come right out in the open and state your case? What on earth's gained by beating about the bush? It gets us nowhere."

This was irrefutable.

"You admit, then, that the tale is true?" She put an elbow on the glass-topped wicker table that divided them, and propped her chin thoughtfully upon her hand.

"It isn't a principle of mine to admit anything. But as a woman of intelligence, you must see that it might go rather against me with Marcella to have a yarn of this sort brought to her ears at the eleventh hour, when our marriage day approaches."

"Oh, is it as soon as that? D'you know I thought that Miles, my quondam suitor, was going to take her from you?"

He stared at her. Had she quite got over the infatuation for the sultry fellow, when she could speak so lightly of another woman taking him away from her? He wondered.

But then one never knew the workings of the female mind.

"You think that Marcella would snatch at any excuse to get out of her engagement with you?" went on Leonie, watching her effect with scornful, calculating eyes. "That attitude of mind is very promising for married life, is it?"

It was against her own interest to point out this undeniable fact, but she couldn't at the moment resist the impulse to "bait" him, knowing full well his inflexible determination to marry his reluctant bride.

Besides, it was fun to tease and annoy him, realizing that her grin on him was so secure, now that this extraordinary knowledge had come accidentally into her possession.

Like the sword of Damocles, she could hang it over his head until the very nuptial day!

"And the alternative?" said Warwick, leaning back, coolly, with a sudden reading of her thoughts that made her jump. "Money, of course. How much?"

She named a sum that startled him. "Blackmail's a criminal offense, as doubtless you must know," he countered. "Whatever I've done or haven't done, I haven't put myself within reach of the law."

"Not yet," said Leonie composedly, "but you plan to do."

There was a silence. Her eyes wandered to the golf course. She must give him time to think, to make a definite decision. And, above all, she must keep her head and give an impression of complete tranquility.

"American golfing clothes are rather—" er odd," she remarked, as though to herself, "the men's I mean. There seems to be no definite type of tweed or cut. I suppose they'd think the 'plus fours' our men wear, ridiculously baggy."

Some girls in gaily colored woolen sweaters went by on the veranda, laughing and talking. They looked to Leonie—adventuresome by dint of circumstances, and not from choice, she told herself—quite envied them. Rich parents were undoubtedly behind them. They hadn't to root for money in the unpalatable ways that fell to her!

Warwick spoke with a suddenness that made her start.

"If I were fool enough to give you a lump sum now, to keep your mouth shut, I've no guarantee that you wouldn't go on with your blackmail after marriage!"

Leonie thought a moment, then she voiced a thought that had been turning in his own mind.

"There would be no necessity for hush-money, because Marcella would be yours, and no matter what she heard it would be—too late!"

"That's a sensible view," commented the man approvingly. "I don't mind talking business with you now."

MEDIUM BROWN HAIR looks best of all after a Golden Gilt Shampoo.—(adv.)

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in an original package and mix fresh as wanted.—(adv.)

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

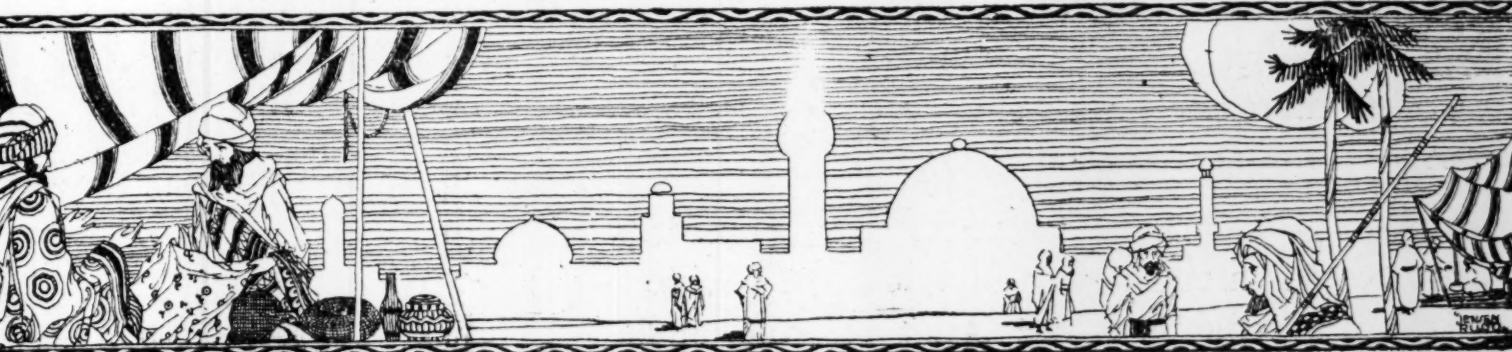

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Mulisified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulisified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub the Mulisified in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulisified cocoon oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulisified.—(adv.)

JIL-BETT

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

Jil-Bett made no attempt to rush madly with the surging throng making for the lifeboats. Her last prayer on her knees in the stateroom, ere she lay down to rest, was that she might die and end it all. Was God answering her prayer? She stood quite still, and the power to move a single step seemed to have left her. Around her fell the hissing, burning firebrands, falling about her like a funeral pyre.

In the midst of it she raised her face to the darkened heavens, with a prayer on her lips to save Jack. For herself she cared not—that one impulse to save oneself in the crucial moment of disaster seemed to have been swept from her senses.

"God save Jack!" she repeated again, with a gasping sob.

No one missed her; no one cared; she was nothing to that mass of human beings fighting desperately for their lives, which meant reaching the lifeboats. The awful scene, so dreadfully distinct in the blood-red glare, held her spellbound. There was the power of thought seemed to leave her, or the realization that she should take her chances with the rest to make for the boats.

With each moment of crime the wild shrieks and moans increased, as boat after boat pushed away, and those in the boats saw dear ones standing, beating the air with awful cries, on the deck of the doomed vessel. Women, maddened by the sight threw themselves, from the boats into the boiling sea in a mad attempt to swim back to save dear ones or perish with them. The terrific downpour still raged, mingled with the awful roar of thunder and terrific bolts of lightning.

Another smokestack gave way, falling to the deck on which Jil-Bett stood, its smoke and ashes covering her like a pall for an instant, then to be caught up by the gale and turned in another direction.

It was only a few moments that she was to live; the realization of that did not seem to occur to her.

"Mother!" she whispered, looking upward, "your poor little Jil-Bett is coming to you. The great world is too cold and hard for her. God will bring her to you, and in your sheltering, angel arms and faithful breast, dearer by far than all others, she will find rest!"

No answer came to her from the heaven that bent above her, and she stood there, rooted to the spot, awaiting the end. For one instant, glancing down at a boat filled to the utmost with human freight, she thought she beheld the face of Jack.

"He will be saved," she breathed. Nothing seemed to matter after that.

Even in that crucial moment she thought of the beautiful girl whom he loved, who would be waiting for him. Would he ever tell her of her, Jil-Bett, who had gone down with the burning vessel to sleep her last sleep on the ocean's bed, of which she had known no fear, only love for it? Would he tell her how young Jil-Bett was to pass away, and that she had never known love and happiness in her young life?

A wave of great sorrow gripped her heart. Why should one of God's young girls know only affection and care, while the other knew only hardships and grief?

The firebrands around her fell thicker; the deck was on fire, its flames leaping higher and higher, rapidly nearing the spot where she stood.

CHAPTER XXXV

Jack was not on the lifeboat, as she supposed; instead, he was searching frantically for Jil-Bett.

He believed her to be asleep in the stateroom of the stewardess. He knew its location; thither he bent his steps, fighting hard to make his way below, through the crowd making their way to the deck. The passageway was crowded with a shrieking mob, and was thick with smoke that blinded and nearly took the breath from him.

He never knew how he reached the place where he expected to find her. The door was open, swinging violently to and fro. He paused on the threshold. By the bright red glare from the porthole he discovered she was not there.

It was as much as his life had been worth to get down. It was tenfold more difficult to retrace his steps. The throng was ahead of him, he on the fringe of it—the last one.

No sob, no cry fell from his lips as he realized that meant he was doomed to go down with the vessel. In that fleeting instant he felt relieved, glad that Jil-Bett would not meet the terrible fate that was in store for him. The captain would see that women and children were put in the lifeboats first. But he felt that he must MAKE SURE she was not on deck, ere he attempted to save himself. It seemed to him an age before he was able to fight his way, inch by inch, to the deck above. As he turned his face aft, and had taken but a stumbling step in that direction, he encountered the mate.

"Go back!" he shouted at Jack. "Another step, and you will be in the very teeth of the furnace!"

Headless of the warning, Jack pushed on. He felt that, let the danger to himself be what it might, he could not leave the vessel until he felt sure Jil-Bett was not on it.

"Curse the madman; his fate be upon his own head; he is the only one to turn back, while the others are pushing forward," muttered the mate.

On through the burning cinders and the thick, rolling smoke Jack forged ahead. A smokestack fell so near him it brushed his clothes as it went down. He realized then that there was no going back—his bridges were burned behind him. If Jil-Bett was not on that deck, he must jump into the sea without a moment to lose. He was an excellent swimmer, but he saw little chance of saving himself in such a sea—it did not seem to be a human possibility.

Ahead he saw two sailors pause hurriedly on the edge of the burning deck. They shouted to him to "Heave overboard!" If he heard, he paid no heed. He saw the sailors mount the railing, and the next instant they had disappeared overboard.

"The last lifeboat!" shouted the captain, raising his voice like a bugle blast over the awful din.

Many realized they would be left, at least some of them, and the cries that rose to the high heavens for "mercy" drowned the roar of the elements, and the fearful crackling of the flames that had marked the noble vessel for a victim of the mighty, insatiable deep.

On he pushed his way; he must get to the farthest end of the deck; at every step he took the leaping flames were at his heels, like wolves following greedily the prey they were so sure of.

Looking out upon the water, through the red glare, he saw, through the dark fog, the last boat push off, then dark forms, which he realized were the crew, struggling in the mountain-high waves.

He was young, life and the future were sweet to look forward to; he had risked all to save Jil-Bett, and it was useless. He felt that he was alone on the burning ship—alone, save for the captain, who would go down with his ship. Even his clarion voice had ceased.

In that moment, through the din, was it only his fancy, or did he hear the echo of a woman's faint, sobbing cry? He strained his ears to hear if it was repeated. The sound came to him a second time, more distinct than before. He realized he was not alone; some human being, caught by the flames, was pining there.

God! The voice sounded not unlike Jil-Bett's. He called out sharply: "There was no answer. He was about to conclude that it had been only the mad fancy of his overwrought brain, when the plaintive cry was repeated for the third time. Again it struck him how like Jil-Bett's voice it sounded.

"Help is at hand!" he shouted. "Where are you? Is it you, Jil-Bett?"

I have lived in the depths of despair for twenty-four hours till today—ah to-day I saw you again and I must write and pour my heart, my soul, my very life at your feet.

I passed very near you to-day, so near—and yet a million miles away from your precious self for you saw me not. We are still divided by a stupendous gulf across which my love throws an intangible bridge of loving thoughts more precious than pearls,

.....BECAUSE BROTHER WILLIE SLIPPED INTO THE HOUSE, BROUGHT OUT HIS OWN KODAK AND GOT A REMARKABLE ACTION SNAP SHOT OF FATHER.

Wonder What An Armenian Waif Thinks About?

I WONDER IF ANYBODY WAS EVER SO HUNGRY AS I AM

I HAD SOME BREAD CRUST YESTERDAY BUT GEE! IT WASN'T VERY FILLING I GUESS

I WONDER IF THE LITTLE BOYS AND GIRLS OF AMERICA EVER GET THIS HUNGRY

I DON'T MIND MY RAGS SO MUCH IF I ONLY HAD SOME THING TO EAT

THERE ISN'T MUCH SENSE HAVING A STOMACH IF YOU HAVEN'T ANYTHING TO PUT INTO IT IS THERE NOW?

- AND THERE'S SO MANY OF US TOO.. WHEN FOOD DOES COME THERE ISN'T 'NOUGH TO GO 'ROUND.

THEY SAY FIVE DOLLARS A MONTH WILL KEEP ONE OF US KIDS FROM STARVING! GEE! THAT MUST BE A LOT OF MONEY - 'NAWFUL LOT

NOTE: THESE PICTURES DRAWN FROM ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHS OF STARVING KIDS IN ARMENIA... THIS IS WHEN THE FELLERS NEED YOUR FRIENDSHIP GET IN TOUCH WITH 'NEAR EAST RELIEF' 151 FIFTH AVE. N.Y.CITY.

REAL ESTATE—For Sale

NORTH SIDE

LANIER HEIGHTS

WE ADVISE our friends who expect to buy and build that out of this wonderful subdivision of some 60 lots, there are only about 15 desirable building lots unsold.

Directly out beautiful Highland Ridge, 1/2 mile beyond Virginia avenue, we have everything but gas and the car line, and the latter is now under course of construction.

Lots vary in price from $1,650 to $2,500, and are worth it.

Give us the opportunity to acquaint you personally with the romance of the section and its wonderful future.
